British Imperial Troops Arrive in Ports in Egypt

Writer with BEF Describes Evacuation from Greek Coast

Unable To Move Equipment, Tommies Destroy the Most of It

By EDWARD KENNEDY

WITH THE BRITISH EXPEDITIONARY FORCE ARRIVED AT CAIRO FROM GREECE May 1 (P)—British Imperial troops who fought the German invaders of Greece have come back to Egypt after the loss of perhaps 8,000 tanks and trucks and many first-line planes, a loss which they believe to be more than balanced by the far heavier German losses of similar equipment.

Most of the British tanks never got away from the Mount Olympus line where they were wrecked or destroyed after inflicting severe losses on the Germans.

The RAF saved most of its pilots, for the great German numerical superiority in the air enabled the Nazi flyers to bomb the RAF planes to bits when they were on the ground and unoccupied. The British estimated they had downed about ten per cent of the German planes, with a high toll of German pilots.

Here is the way the British escaped:

Battle Raging in Libya Is Part of Axis Plan To Win Control of Canal

Tanks Swing into Action and British Warships Shell Italian and German Attacking Units

CAIRO, Egypt, May 1 (P)—German shock troops cracked the outer defense of Tobruk, Libya, today after an all-night battle launched with the hope of wiping out that British threat to the Axis drive toward the Suez Canal.

Tanks led the way in the action, which was continued late today.

It was too early tonight to tell how the fighting would end, informed sources said, but they declared there appeared to be little to distinguish the battle from previous attacks on Tobruk which have been repulsed.

Military circles said the Italian-German forces concentrated around the Egyptian port of Salum apparently were keyed up for a short advance. Only a small force was assembled in this area and they are constantly subjected to harassing attacks by British light units, it was contended.

Warships in Action

To relieve pressure on the Tobruk garrison, British warships turned their big guns on Axis troops and supply trucks moving along the coastal road west of Tobruk at Ain El Gazala. The bombardment was "successful," the admiralty said.

Ain El Gazala is about thirty miles from Tobruk and just beyond Tobruk's defense, a vast area of anti-tank ditches, machine-gun nests, steel and concrete forts and troop dug-outs.

Axis columns swept past Tobruk April 8 in the surprise drive rolling the British back from Bengasi. They have penetrated five or six miles into Egypt in the Salum area.

Tobruk, constitutes a dangerous wedge in the side of Axis communications—already considered tenuous enough because of the 800 miles (Continued on Page 23, Col. 4)

Demonstration of Battlefield Work Given at Meade

Officers See First of Series of "Command Post" Exercises

FORT GEORGE G. MEADE, Md., May 1 (P)—Twenty-ninth division officers today observed a new type demonstration of infantry and artillery battlefield teamwork.

The occasion was the first of a series of "command post" exercises designed to show on a miniature scale a complete picture of the division in coordinated action.

The entire field command system, from divisional and artillery brigade posts at the rear of infantry outposts at the front, was set up on the parade field near Division Hill as for actual attack by infantry troops supported by artillery fire.

The command points, connected by a radio, telephone and telegraph communications net, were laid out on an abbreviated scale so they could be viewed in relation to each other. Each post was completely staffed with enlisted men, and the groups of officers received detailed explanations of the functions of individual units in the system.

An airplane was used to observe "enemy" activity, with messages exchanged before and after the observation flight.

At one point there was a demonstration of an infantry unit, in a simulated attack, calling for direct artillery support and receiving it.

Division, brigade, regimental and battalion staff officers attended the two and a half hour demonstration, held under direction of Col. O. S. Wood, director of the twenty-ninth division's schools.

NAZI FLYERS SEIZED BY BRITISH FROM U. S. SHIP

En route to Germany via Japan and Russia, these Nazi airmen were taken from the U. S. liner President Garfield by a British auxiliary cruiser which stopped the liner 400 miles from Honolulu. The flyers, left to right, Naumann, Flesch, Sandkamm and Katze had boarded the vessel at San Francisco after escaping from a Canadian internment camp.

50 Big American Tankers Soon To Help the British

Sen. Guffey Wants U. S. Fleet Assigned to Convoy Duty

Tankers Will Bring Oil from South for Transfer to Allies

WASHINGTON, May 1 (P)—Fifty big American tankers were readied for service of Britain today, while the Senate heard for the first time an open demand that the American navy be assigned to convoy duty, at least within the Western Hemisphere.

The demand was made by Senator Guffey (D-Pa.), an administration man, who asserted that the risks involved were justified by the "peril" that confronts the nation. He was challenged at once by Senator Tobey (R-NH.) who announced that he would present his anti-convoy resolution as a rider to pending legislation and insist upon a roll-call vote.

The tankers, the Maritime Commission announced, are to be assigned to their new duties within a few days, in quick compliance with President Roosevelt's request for 2,000,000 tons of shipping to be used in this nation's program of "all out aid to the democracies." As soon as the tanker transaction is out of the way, it was said, (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Convoys if Necessary, Willkie Says in Plea To Aid Great Britain

Republican Leader Declares Ships and Supplies Must Be Provided if England Is to Survive

NEW YORK, May 1 (P)—Ships and more ships for Britain—and convoys ships if necessary—were urged today by Wendell L. Willkie, if Britain is to survive.

"Furnish to Britain today and tomorrow and the next day for her desperate need, ships—the ships in our docks, the ships in our coastwise trade—until it hurts, the impounded ships of other nations, the ships were are building," he said.

"Give to her destroyers, and if necessary see that those ships loaded with the ever-increasing production of American factories and farms, deliver their cargoes safely to the ports of western and northern England."

"Thus will England survive," Willkie said in an article in the current issue of Colliers in which he presents the "international view" in reply to the isolationist viewpoint expounded by Charles A. Lindbergh in a recent issue of the magazine.

His plea for ships Willkie gave as "a practical, specific plan," in reply to Lindbergh's request for plans. (Continued on Page 23, Col. 5)

British Massing Troops In Effort To Frustrate New Nazi Pincer Moves

English Forces Land at Basra over Opposition of New Iraq Government and Fear Possible Attack Will Be Brought about by German Intrigue; Rich Mosul Oil Fields Are Stake of Both Sides

LONDON, May 1 (P)—New and strong forces of the British Imperial army stood guard tonight in Iraq, in the path of a vast pincer which appears to have begun already, a sweep aimed at engulfment of Suez, Egypt and the rich oil fields of Asia Minor.

Authoritative sources disclosed that additional British forces had been landed at Basra, over the opposition of the new Iraq government and in the face of Iraqi army concentrations which, they feared, are threatening the British air base at Habaniyah, on the Euphrates.

The base is sixty miles west of Baghdad. Authoritative sources said they had heard reports that Nazi agents were "intriguing" recently in Iraq, and expressed the hope that the Iraq government will show plainly that such intrigues are not effective.

Pierce Tobruk Defenses

West of Suez, at the edge of Egypt's western desert, Axis armored columns had pierced the outer defenses of British held Tobruk, and well-informed observers here were openly agitated lest the Axis scissors close before General Sir Archibald P. Wavell has a chance to reorganize and re-group the British middle-eastern armies following the Balkan defeats.

These observers say elimination of the British hold on Tobruk is essential to the Germans and Italians before they can renew in force their eastward thrust across north Africa. Once Tobruk had fallen only the British fleet and air force would be able to cut the Axis lines which stretch some 800 miles east of Tripoli.

The fleet already is at work, pounding anew at the Axis panzers at El Gazala, west of Tobruk.

The additional contingents sent to Iraq, following the initial landings of April 17 and 18, presumably are there for these reasons:

How British Figue Moves

1. To discourage the Germans from trying to send air and sea-borne troops to next-door Syria, protectorate of beaten France, and make Syria a base for a drive on Suez.

2. Stiffen Turkey's back against a Nazi march-through by land to the middle east.

3. Provide greater protection for the Mosul oil fields.

4. Restrain the French in Syria from letting the Nazis get a foothold there.

Authoritative British sources acknowledged that the present Iraq authorities, who are in power as the result of a coup d'etat, de-murred against the new troop landings on the ground that the men (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Brothers Found Guilty of Murder

Jury Takes only One Minute To Convict the Espositos

NEW YORK, May 1 (P)—In one minute, a jury of twelve men today convicted the "mad dog" Esposito brothers of murder in the first degree, condemning them to die in the electric chair for a cold-blooded slaying that started a mad chase through midtown Manhattan on January 14.

The defendants—William, 29, and Anthony, 35—were convicted of the holdup slaying of a linen firm executive, a shooting that touched off a drama of violence on Fifth avenue in which a patrolman also was slain, two men were wounded and scores of non-day pedestrians endangered during the chase, shooting and capture.

The brothers, whose defense was insanity, heard the verdict without emotion.

Judge John J. Prescht expressed satisfaction with the verdict, which it was learned was reached on the first ballot, and said he was convinced "that these two defendants were feigning insanity."

"Swift, impartial and exact justice xxx has been done in this case," he declared.

He said he would sentence the brothers next Wednesday.

Into the elevator of an office building at 34th street and Fifth avenue last January 14 the brothers followed Alfred Klausman, general manager of a linen firm, and shot (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Four "Junes" in Navy during '41

Speedup in Graduation Causes Strange Situation at Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 1 (P)—Heave a sigh for dead tradition you navy men, and ponder over this modern pace: the navy has four "Junes" in 1941.

For it's "Junes" to the days when June and June week rolled around only once a year at the U. S. Naval Academy, "June" whizzes by so often a midshipman thinks he's reached retirement age by the day he receives his ensign's commission.

Island of Crete Seems One of Next Objectives of the German Forces

BERLIN, May 1 (P)—The Nazi force unleashed today what authorities described as an intensified offensive in North Africa and blasted at shops in Suda harbor on the island of Crete.

The high command gave no indication as to the direction of the next German thrust in the south, but Berlin newspapers significantly began discussing "the vulnerability of the island of Crete," a tiny 100 miles south of the Nazi base which is completing the conquest of Peloponnesus.

Crete, to which King George II and his government fled shortly before Hitler's troops entered Athens, is only 200 miles from Africa—a short hop for transport planes carrying paratroopers or air infantry.

Again Warns Roosevelt

Government offices in Berlin observed May Day but Nazi newspapers continued without pause to warn that any American ship which enters the war must expect to be sunk. They urged the German view that if President Roosevelt sends warships or merchantmen into these zones it will be a deliberate court of danger "with the object of inviting incidents."

The Luftwaffe intensified North African activity today included the bombing of British trip columns and artillery positions in advance of German ground forces, the Germans said, while attacks on Crete damaged a tanker and two large merchantmen lying in Suda harbor, the British base on that island.

Air War Slows Down

The air war in the west was relatively quiet last night, but the high command claimed successful air attacks were made on Harbor facilities in southern and eastern England, while other raiders sank a small freighter off Scotland and damaged two additional freighters, and a destroyer "so seriously that their loss is presumed."

RAF bombers visited Northern Germany during the night and inflicted some property damage and casualties but failed, an official announcement said, to penetrate the defenses of Berlin, although the capital had a brief alarm.

Grand Jury Charges Houck Made Conflicting Statements at Probe

Democratic Delegate Faces Arrest in Senate Investigation

BALTIMORE, May 1 (P)—Charles S. Houck, Jr., democratic delegate from Frederick county, was notified by Frederick county sheriff's officers today that he had been accused in a special presentment by the Baltimore grand jury with giving conflicting statements in connection with a grand jury investigation.

Houck, 43, twice has appeared before the grand jury which is probing an alleged "shakedown" during the 1941 legislature.

Deputy Sheriff Fred Knox of Frederick said Houck was notified of the presentment by Deputy R. Paul Buhrman and that the delegate had been released on his own (Continued on Page 23, Col. 3)

Chamber of Commerce Pledges Aid In Defense; Raps New Deal Plans

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, May 1 (P)—The United States Chamber of Commerce pledged "the right of way all down the line" for defense production today but disagreed sharply with administration officials on the best way to pay the bill and maintain stable economic conditions during the emergency.

The business organization's policies were stated in resolutions adopted at the closing of its four-day convention. These included a pronouncement on "employment relations" which proposed that all member Chambers of Commerce and "forward-looking and patriotic labor and industrial leaders" immediately seek to work out a moratorium on disputes in defense industries.

Hawkes Elected President

As if to underscore this program for labor peace, the board of directors subsequently elected to the presidency of the chamber Albert W. Hawkes of Kearny, N. J., advocate of a "reasonable" attitude on the part of both management and (Continued on Page 23, Col. 2) employees. Hawkes succeeded James S. Kemper of Chicago.

Naim, Inc., said in a statement that "in the face of the present world challenge we must obtain maximum results through common effort in our preparations for national defense, which is the most important problem now before the American people."

"The emergency," he declared, "calls for understanding, cooperation and willingness to work and sacrifice on the part of all the American people."

Resolutions adopted brought out three major differences in chamber and governmental policy:

Three Major Differences

1. Whereas administration officials have declared that normal business activities must give way before the exigencies of defense production, the chamber while advocating the "right of way" for defense, spoke of "super-imposing the (Continued on Page 23, Col. 2)

Tax Payments in Installments in Advance Planned

Morgenthau Working on Plan To Avoid Necessity of Borrowing

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP)—A plan to permit income taxpayers to prepay proposed new levies in installments was endorsed in principle by the treasury today.

Secretary Morgenthau disclosed that his tax experts were at work on such a scheme, which would help taxpayers to avoid the necessity of borrowing at tax time.

The secretary said he could not disclose details but that the department was considering the sale of special securities which could be used to pay taxes, in place of cash.

An individual, anticipating a tax of $120, thus could buy $10 of these securities each month and be well prepared for the tax collector when he came around.

The Morgenthau disclosure followed the general theme of a plan put forward yesterday at House Ways and Means committee hearings on plans to increase federal revenue by $3,600,000,000.

Rep. Southoff (Prog-Wis) suggested sale at postoffices of "tax stamps" in denominations ranging from $1 to $5, for later use in paying taxes. In addition to an advantage to the taxpayer, Southoff said, the treasury would benefit through earlier receipt of the tax money.

Other suggestions made at the committee's hearings today included a recommendation by a group of moving picture theater operators that all adult admission fees, such as those at movie houses, be subjected to the ten per cent admission tax.

Admissions of more than twenty cents now are taxed and the treasury has proposed lowering the exemption to nine cents.

Hurricanes Did Not Help British

CAIRO, May 1 (AP)—In their fight and withdrawal from Greece, British troops were bombed at least fifty times a day with no way of hitting back.

"Just wait, the Hurricanes will come," one New Zealand corporal told his complaining men, speaking as tenderly as a mother soothing a child. "They must be holding them back to let the Jerries have it all at once."

But the Hurricanes did not come.

As an example of what the RAF was up against, the Germans one morning attacked the Argos landing field every three minutes until every plane there was destroyed.

The leader of the group wearing yellow was Marie Santora and the attendants Ann Marie Kelly and Jo Ann White. Charlotte Lehman was leader of the green group and her attendants were Nora Lee Vanaudale and Mildred Jones. The pink group was headed by Marie Wilson with Mary Puderbaugh and Gladys Miltenberger as attendants.

Girls Carry Bouquets

Freshmen students of Ursuline Academy were next in line dressed in white and carrying bouquets of pink carnations and daisies, preceded by Miss Eileen Kelly, dressed in blue and carrying daisies. Miss Ann Russell, dressed in green and carrying a bouquet of pink carnations, preceded the sophomore class whose members carried bouquets of pink carnations. Sophomores wore pink carnations for head dress. Following was the junior class dressed in white and wearing blue silk capes. Juniors carried Talisman roses and wore Talisman roses as their head dress. Miss Agnes Margaret Gillard preceded the junior class and was dressed in yellow and carried a bouquet of mixed flowers. The juniors were maids of honor to the May Queen.

Miss Mary Ann Hotchkiss dressed in pink and carrying sweet peas preceded the senior class, which was attired in white cap and gown and carrying pink roses, escorted the May Queen.

Miss Kathleen Swann as May Queen, wore a white satin dress and the traditional crown and veil of Ursuline's May Queens. She carried a beautiful bridal bouquet of roses. The queen's first attendant of honor, Rosemary Mathias, wore a pink dress and carried and old-fashioned bouquet. Miss Mildred Flynn, second attendant to the queen, wore a yellow dress and carried Talisman roses. Little Miss Elizabeth Meyer, dressed in blue carried the crown on a white silk pillow. George Gratz, Thomas Connor, Wallace Beaudieu and James Mulligan were train bearers.

Forty altar boys robed in red cassocks and white surplices added to the beauty of the long line of procession.

The Rev. Father Boniface, O.F.M. Cap., preached the sermon. The statue of Our Lady, under the title "House of Gold," was carried by Mary Cecilia Murray, John Ackerman, Ida Santora and Mary Lourdes Grabenstein.

Mayor Rules Fishing Is Necessary For Defense and Entire Town Goes

SEYMOUR, Tex., May 1 (AP)—Everybody in this west Texas town of 3,500 went fishing today but the chief, somebody had to keep watch and he was it.

The police station was locked up tighter than a hat band.

Maybe there was a cop or so on patrol. Some citizens suspected their beat carried them fifteen miles north to Lake Kemp, where everybody gathered to keep fit for national defense, and to give the fish bite.

Seymour has been observing the opening of game fishing season in Texas like this for many years, but it's the first time national defense was blamed.

The official words of their mayor ringing in their ears, everybody was on the job in boat or slough by daylight, "notwithstanding dictatorial, wars and world-wide selfishness and greed."

Mayor C. M. Randall had advised strongly that "too-long continued and consistent concentration is sure to prove detrimental to the mental and physical health of the nation."

He took a deep breath, looked over his own assortment of fishing tackle, and went on:

"A proper amount of relaxation is essentially necessary, despite gravity of conditions, to keep our people in proper condition to cope with situations yet to come. Meeting adjourned to Lake Kemp."

The weather was partly cloudy, waters of the lake, alive with bass and crappie, clear.

By noon Seymour was a ghost city. You couldn't buy gas for ten dollars a gallon because there was no one to sell. Banks, schools and grocery stores were closed.

And quite a few people caught fish.

Two Wounded American Newspapermen Arrive Safely in Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt, May 2 (Friday) (AP)—Two wounded American newspapermen, one of them Robert St. John, of the Associated Press, reached safety here early today after living through the successive dangers of a 400-mile voyage in a small boat and the British evacuation from Greece.

St. John, missing since the German army invaded Yugoslavia and blocked communications with the little kingdom, was slightly wounded in the leg by machine-gun fire.

Also safe was Leigh White, of Columbia Broadcasting System and the Overseas News Agency, but he was hit in the thigh by two of a stream of bullets which crashed through the roof of the train he was riding from Patras, Greece, to Corinth.

White, and presumably St. John, made their way to Corinth after reaching Greece from Yugoslavia in a small rowboat equipped with a motor.

White was treated at Argos, Greece, hospital, where a British Royal Air Force surgeon performed over 400 operations on wounded persons, many of them Greek civilians.

Florida Increases Tax on Horse Races

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 1 (AP)—The Florida legislature today gave overwhelming approval to Governor Holland's program for raising $2,450,000 for old age pensions by levying a new five per cent tax on money bet at the state's two horse tracks.

The House approved two bills in the program without a dissenting vote and sent them back with a few minor amendments to the Senate, which approved them earlier by big majorities.

The bills were passed in the face of assertions by officials of Hialeah and Tropical at Miami that the additional levy would wreck racing.

The major bill in the program would levy an additional five per cent tax on race bets and is designed to raise $2,150,000 a year. It would make the total take fifteen per cent. The tracks will continue to get seven per cent for their operations.

Labor Trouble Closes Montgomery Ward Store

PORTLAND, Ore., May 1 (AP)—The Montgomery Ward & Company Portland mail order and retail store will close May 3, throwing 1,375 employees out of work, the management said in an advertisement in Portland newspapers today.

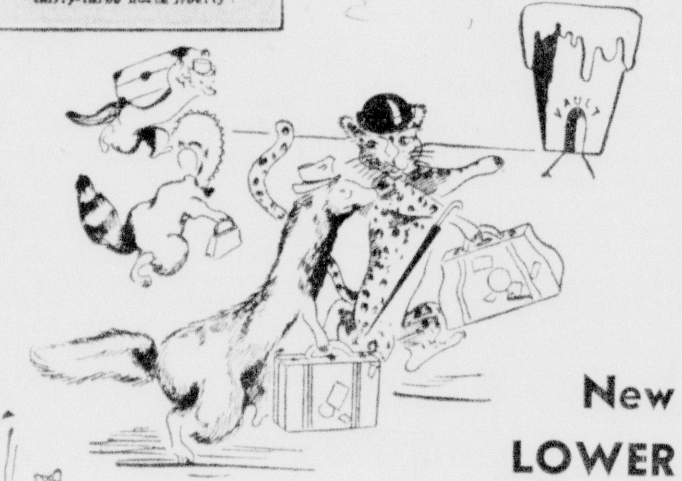

The company said picketing of the plant since Dec. 7, 1940, and inability to get truck, rail or postal deliveries were the causes.

AFL warehousemen, retail clerks, and office workers unions struck for wage increases and a union shop. The company declared, however, that "no dispute existed as to wages."

Fred Dixon, secretary of the clerks' union, denied the company's claim of no wage dispute.

Private Planes To Be Sent to Allies

American Airlines Will Also Contribute, Jesse Jones Says

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP)—Jesse H. Jones announced today "a substantial number" of airplane from airline and private owners will be turned over to the government within the next three days for allocation to Great Britain and other countries under the Lease-Lend program.

Jones, secretary of commerce, gave no figures on the planes or the types of planes involved. He made public a letter to President Roosevelt saying:

"I have your letter of the twenty-ninth, requesting that I arrange to secure from the air transport industry and from private owners a substantial number of planes of transport type for allocation by you to the democracies under the Lease-Lend act."

"I am pleased to advise that we have contracted the principal airline officials and owners of private planes, and without exception, they have indicated a willingness to comply with your request."

"A substantial number of planes will be delivered within the next three days."

An aide of Jones estimated the number of planes to be delivered in the next three days would be about twenty to thirty.

This official said that was about all the planes that the airlines could spare without curtailment of service.

It is his understanding that the ships will be turned over to the British with their passenger seats intact, and that the planes were wanted for actual transport service.

Conlon Named Tax Agent of the B. & O.

BALTIMORE, May 1 (AP)—Appointment of Thomas E. Conlon as tax agent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, succeeding Hugh McNeil, Jr., who resigned due to ill health after fifty years service, was announced today.

John J. Cornwell, B. & O. general counsel who made the announcement, said Conlon's appointment is effective as of today, and his headquarters will be in Baltimore.

Conlon has served as assistant general freight claim agent since Jan. 1, 1940.

Born in Toledo, O., June 27, 1883, he entered the B. & O. service in that city in December, 1900 as a stenographer in the division freight agent's office.

He was transferred in November, 1903, to the general freight office in Pittsburgh and became stenographer and chief clerk there in February of the following year.

Conlon was made secretary to the division freight agent in May, 1904, and secretary to the general freight agent in May, 1906.

He was appointed traveling freight agent at Conneville, Pa., in 1914 and in 1918 came to Baltimore as supervisor of freight suits for the entire system. His duties consisted of preparation of law suits growing out of loss and damage to freight.

Italian General Dies from Wounds

NEW YORK, May 1 (AP)—The British radio in a broadcast heard tonight by NBC said Rome reported that Brig-Gen. Miell, chief of staff of the Italian armed forces in North Africa, died in Tripoli from wounds suffered in a British air-raid.

British Imperial

Whole British battalions lay concealed beneath the trees by day as the soldiers waited for boats, and the German dive bombers searched vainly for them.

By night the beaches were alive with men, the sea cluttered with boats. Every vessel that could pass muster was used and the greater part—the British now say 8,000 out of 60,000—got away.

Little material could be taken away but most of that which was left behind was destroyed. The Germans, when they reached the shore found the woods full of wrecked vehicles, destroyed supplies.

The British came down to the sea with their rifles, packs and machine-guns, and most of them carried them away with them.

In the cases of bigger guns the breeches were torn off before they were abandoned.

Many trucks were merely rolled into the sea, others pitched over the cliffs so the Germans could never use them.

In some cases, hand grenades were used to destroy British vehicles; others were chopped to pieces with axes or set afire with gasoline.

With the RAF having lost its forward air fields by the break through the Mount Olympus line, and with the Greeks near collapse for all their valiant struggle, the British decided on the afternoon of April 22 to pull out.

With a motley group of Australian troops, civilians refugees and 130 German prisoners, I left Piraeus on the last boat out of that port of Athens. Our little boat, jammed with nearly 1,000 persons, left the harbor at night, shortly before midnight, and got clear out as the Germans bombed the port for the fourth time in twenty-four hours.

Piraeus already was a jungle of broken and twisted wreckage when we left, threading our way through channels strewn with German airborne mines.

See Ship Go Down

Arriving at Crete by noon, we found our port there under steady German and Italian air attack. I saw one ship go down in seven minutes, but our own was not touched.

Going ashore, we learned that King George II of Greece, the premier and the royal household had arrived in Crete in a British plane April 23.

Crete will be defended, and the rugged island, with snowcapped peaks and scarcely any level ground, lends itself to defense. A British general told me it could and would be held, and the Greeks agreed.

The crew of our Greek ship did not want to go farther, so most of the refugees were taken to a camp ashore. The Australians and I stayed aboard for another day, then came on to Egypt on an oil tanker.

Sitting atop 6,000 tons of oil at sea with dive-bombers playing overhead does not induce calm nerves but nothing serious happened.

The problem of British troops in Greece was complicated by the fact that Greece had only two harbors with facilities for unloading heavy British materials. These were Piraeus, adjoining Athens, and Salonika.

Piraeus Quickly Wrecked

Salonika fell early into German hands, and Piraeus was quickly wrecked by German bombs.

This prevented landing of any more effective aid, and it was decided to withdraw the British expeditionary forces with their comparatively low casualties up to that time.

When this was made, the British had just installed themselves on the so-called Thermopylae line, an elliptical front running from Thermopylae on the Aegean to a point near the ancient oracle of Delphi on the Gulf of Corinth.

The withdrawal to this line had been most orderly, despite terrific and constant German air attacks. It had been planned to make an immediate stand north of Lamia, but this was abandoned primarily because of the danger of Germans landing airplane troops and parachutists on the plain just to the south.

The Germans did use air-borne troops but did not succeed in landing them behind the British lines. They resorted to parachutists later to grab the single bridge over the Corinthian canal to keep the British from blowing it up, and also landed troops by plane in the Peloponnese later.

No Battle at Thermopylae

Thermopylae itself, which is a shelf of land between the cliffs and the sea, was filled with barbed wire and tank traps.

Strong positions were taken up on the main road farther west, and other British imperial troops dug in on the rugged mountains which formed the rest of that line.

But no great "modern battle of Thermopylae" ever was fought. Instead, the pass was held merely by covering parties for the evacuation line, and there was no truly major contact between the British and Germans after the withdrawal from the Olympus sector.

The German air attacks on all the roads were so heavy that most of the withdrawals were by night. The nights of April 22 and 23 were moonless. This, together with the fact that the earlier Olympus withdrawals were achieved on two rainy nights which kept the Germans out of the air, was of tremendous importance to the British.

The biggest embarkations took place the nights of April 24 and April 27.

Scientist Would Gas Germany To Force an End to Blitzkriegs

DENVER, May 1 (AP)—An Iowa scientist declared today that a bath of mustard gas released over Germany would bring "the blitzkrieg of explosives aimed at civilian populations to a speedy end."

Dr. O. R. Sweeney, head of the Iowa State College chemical engineering department, was asked in an interview why Germany had not resorted to poison gas in the present war.

"Don't imagine that it is because of any agreements entered into with other governments," Sweeney replied. "The reason is that Germany lacks the products—grain and the like—from which gas is manufactured x x x."

"We have here in the United States vast quantities of surplus grains on which chemistry works to produce the elements for the production of mustard gas—alcohol, ethylene, sulphur, chlorine and salt."

"Put this mustard gas to work and the blitzkrieg of explosives aimed at civilian populations will come to a speedy end."

Then they raced onto crowded Fifth avenue, terrorizing pedestrians with their guns — they carried six — killed Patrolman Edward Maher, 32, and wounded two other men before being captured. Part of the chase led through a block-long department store.

Defense counsel throughout the trial admitted the slayings, but contended the brothers, both possessors of long police records, were insane at the time.

Anthony drooled, ate paper, banged his head on tables and walls and apparently ignored the progress of the trial. During the last few days he was manacled and bound to his chair.

Add next December it will be "June" with the present juniors graduating Dec. 19, six months ahead of schedule.

The reservists will have "June Week" May 12 to May 15, receiving reserve ensigns' commissions at the end of their ninety-day course.

The academy is giving them a colorful ceremony, complete with dress parades, a graduation ball May 1 and a reception by Rear Admiral Russell Wilson, academy superintendent.

The "regular" June week will be staged May 24 to May 31, without any seniors or any graduation. The seniors graduated in February had a "without" June Week, too. It was without a color girl, without kisses, and without some of the other traditional ceremonies.

This "post mortem" June week will last nine days with a round of athletic and social events for the juniors and second year men. It will feature dances, receptions, and the presentation of colors ceremony, with a color girl to transfer the academy's flag to the company winning inter-company drills.

After it, the academy will buckle down to hard work again.

Plan State Survey Of Farm Labor

BALTIMORE, May 1 (AP)—A wide survey designed to determine how many agricultural laborers be needed in Maryland this summer is now in progress, Director L. B. Fringer of the state employment service said today.

Questionnaires are being sent to individual farmers in every county except Somerset, where authorities thought it unnecessary, Fringer said.

Present estimates are that approximately 4,500 workers will be needed on the Eastern Shore harvest truck crops during the summer. In addition, Fringer believes that several thousand men needed for more or less permanent employment in general farming. Still another problem, which is not expected to be acute, will be with the fruit harvest season.

Information being sought from farmers in the current labor survey, the employment service head said, includes the number men required and the dates which they were to be needed. It may be possible to tap the labor pool from one section of the state to another to meet needs.

Assurances have been received from both the WPA and the M. Fringer said, that the federal agencies will release enrollees if when they are needed as agricultural workers.

THE DAILY STORY STAR WITNESS

Swinging the Jury Was Child's Play Compared to the Job of Changing the Mind of the Beautiful Young Witness

By JOSEPH BARTON

The room in Criminal Court, crowded by citizen-spectators, lawyers, reporters and in-misappropriation charge had sadly misfired because of Elsa Manson, Voloff's secretary.

"May it please the court," spoke

He glared ferociously.

Herbert Levering, the state's attorney in charge of the prosecution, "I think this farce has gone far enough. Miss Manson is, to my belief, compounding a felony in refusing to testify in this case!"

He glared ferociously and impatiently at the pretty young woman who sat with the defense counsel at the table directly in front of the judicial bench. She was acting childishly.

"Let this court remind the learned prosecuting attorney that there has been no felony proven as yet!" Puffy Judge Baldrick ruled amiably, allowing his mild blue eyes to rest upon the young lady in question. She was just an innocent young thing, he reflected paternally, mixed up in a nasty political mess.

Levering snapped impatiently. "The burden of the proof must rest with her. The office records, which would show that Boris Voloff unlawfully disposed of public moneys entrusted to his office, have disappeared. Miss Manson has charge of them!"

"Your honor, my opponent is attempting to intimidate my client," Defense Attorney Gormley pleaded to the court.

Levering sighed exasperatedly. "The court will remember that there has been sufficient corroboration by witnesses for the prosecution to indicate that Boris Voloff is guilty as charged," he pointed out. "Miss Manson has been sworn in the court. I suggest that the court demand, upon pain of a contempt citation, that she testify and clear this case which is costing the taxpayers unnecessary expense!"

Judge Baldrick perked up his ears. Levering was a nasty enemy to have when one was an elective judge. He wouldn't be above pointing out, via the public press, that the judge was betraying his constituents by coddling a witness.

"The court upholds the prosecution's lawful demand," he acquiesced with a frown. "Miss Manson will you tell the court what you know of the disappearance of the records in question?"

"No, your honor!" The pretty young woman's answer was short, but undeniably sincere. Judge Baldrick instinctively felt Levering winding up for one of his famous tirades against machine politics and enemies of the public. He could stop him, but it would look bad in the evening papers, just the same.

"You are obstructing the path of justice in this court, Miss Manson," he said sternly and regretfully. "I hold you in contempt of court—with a penalty of five days in the county jail!" Levering smiled thinly. Baldrick knew what side of his bread was buttered all right. In five days the girl would reconsider.

The trial came to another of those

Kiddie Sun-Frock or Jumper

Marian Martin

PATTERN 9711

Mothers—here's a made-to-order idea to solve your very young daughters' summer wardrobe problems. This one simple Marian Martin Pattern, 9711, makes both a jumper outfit and a sun-style, PLUS bloomers or panties. A buttoning all down the back of the jumper or sun-dress lets you handle the garment in a convenient open-spread piece for stitching or ironing. The side front and back bodice sections curve right up to form the straps and may be in bright contrast, outlined in ric-rac. Wouldn't the fresh little blouse be gay in a print or polka-dot fabric? Order this style now!

Pattern 9711 may be ordered only in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12. Size 6, sun-frock, requires 1½ yards 35 inch fabric, ¾ yard contrast, and 1½ yards ric-rac; jumper, 1½ yards 35 inch fabric; blouse, ¾ yard contrast and ¾ yard lace.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

Be first with new fashions for the warm-weather season! Send today for the Marian Martin Pattern Book. It's gay with color and filled with facts about fabrics and accessories. There are smart, original, easy-to-make styles for day and evening, town and country, work and play. You'll like the completeness of our fashion coverage... the simple accuracy of our patterns... the promptness of our mail service... and the low price of our book, fifteen cents. as a secretary, but actually my work consisted mainly in being a receptionist to handle all the political acquaintances he had!"

"Let's go out to luncheon and talk this over, Miss Manson. I can have you put into my custody for that long. Shall we?"

"I'd love it, Herb. And you may call me Elsa if you like. It sounds more friendly!"

They discussed the question at luncheon—and at several subsequent lunches after the girl's sentence had been served. In court, Attorney Levering tossed a bombshell when the case reopened.

"I ask this court to release me from appearing further in the prosecution of the case of State vs. Boris Voloff," he demanded without delay. He had come to know Elsa—and it was his undeniable conviction that she was the victim of foul play.

"This is highly irregular, Mr. Levering!" Judge Baldrick pronounced, a puzzled frown on his face. What was Levering up to? "May I ask why you request this dismissal from the case?"

"It would hardly be ethical, your honor," the attorney said softly, coming to the bench and speaking confidentially to the judge. "I have learned things which prejudice my opinion and besides, last week Miss Manson and I were married!"

Today's GARDEN-GRAPH

By DEAN HALLIDAY

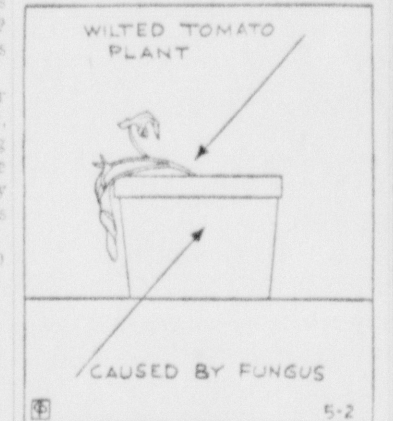

(Distributed by Central Press Association)

WHAT TO DO ABOUT "DAMPING-OFF"

There is nothing more discouraging to the gardener than to discover some morning that the plants which seemed so healthy yesterday are wilted today.

As illustrated in the Garden-Graph "damping-off" is shown by the sudden wilting of the tomato seedling. There is no way to cure or save a seedling attacked with "damping-off" but it can be largely vented by sterilizing the soil and seed before sowing. Overcrowding and an excess of moisture and dull weather are contributing factors which bring about the disease.

As soon as a plant or group of plants show signs of "damping-off," remove the diseased plants and the soil surrounding them and burn it immediately as the disease spreads rapidly.

Robert Louis Stevenson's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" is said to be based on a story by E. A. Poe, titled "William Wilson."

Eastern Star Delegates Return from Baltimore

Members of Local Chapters Are Appointed to Three Offices

John J. Robinson, 826 Shriver avenue, was appointed "grand sentinel" at the Old Fashioned Garden Session of the Eastern Star, which was held at the Lord Baltimore hotel, Baltimore, April 28, 29 and 30.

Mrs. Otto Smith, 813 Mt. Royal avenue, was appointed "deputy grand lecturer" and Mrs. Anna M. Yeager, worthy grand matron, Jaspert Taylor, worthy grand patron, presided.

Mrs. Bessie Baird, past grand matron, installed the officers, who will visit here the last week in June.

The guests of honor at the session were General Grand Chapter officers.

Monday session opened at 7 p. m. with a musical prelude by Miss Gertrude Dashiels, grand organist; the Rev. James A. Dudley, P. P., Glen Burnie Chapter, No. 63, gave the invocation; Mrs. Yeager presided at the formal opening and presented the guests of honor, Mrs. Isabelle T. Marshall welcomed them; Mr. Taylor welcomed the Past Grand Matrons and Patrons; the Grand Officers, Grand Representatives to Maryland of other Jurisdictions, including Harry L. Robinson, Right Worshipful Deputy Grand Master of the Grand Lodge A. F. and A. M. of Maryland.

Mrs. Anna A. Janney, associate grand matron, extended greetings to the Grand Chapter members and visitors; Edgar S. Hubbert, associate grand patron, gave the response.

Others presented were the pages, guards, ushers, grand lecturers, deputy grand lecturers, grand representatives, and the sessions committee.

The Tuesday session was devoted to reading reports of various committees.

The grand officers were elected at the Wednesday morning meeting and at the afternoon session the final reports of the committees were made and the new and unfinished business transacted. Miss Bessie Baird installed the Grand officers at the evening session, the official jewels were presented and Mrs. Janney and Mrs. Herbert gave addresses.

Some of those attending from here were Miss Bessie Baird, Mrs. Belmont Robinson, Miss Mamie Orndorf, Mrs. Charles M. Glover, Mrs. Otto Smith, Mrs. Lucille Doo-

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

WHO IS VULNERABLE?

IN MANY a situation, the action you take depends upon which side, if either, is vulnerable. One standard situation of that kind arises when you reckon your side can make a game or set the opponents' doubled bid a couple of tricks. If you are vulnerable and they are not, you have to beat them four tricks to get a better score than the game. If they are vulnerable and you are not, defeating them a mere two tricks will give you the better result. The same principle applies to part score deals. If your side cannot make a game, you do better by setting them even one vulnerable doubled trick than by making a less-than-game contract. This is just as true in rubber bridge as in match-point duplicate, though the latter makes it clearer because the hand usually gets played at various contracts.

South led his club K against this, and then wishing to retain a chance for North to lead through East's probable guarded J, switched to the spade Q. The A won, the K was knocked out by the return, and East then ran four heart tricks, followed by the distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

diamond A. He then was doomed to lose the rest. When he led his diamond 8 to the K, South switched to a spade, so that his side finished with tricks in the black suits. This defeated East only one trick, but since he was vulnerable, it gave North and South a score of 200, top on the board for them in the duplicate where the hand was dealt.

Most tables produced a contract of spades for North-South, who made three-odd for a score of 90 plus 50 bonus for part-score contract, or a total of only 140. These declarers lost one trick in spades, two in hearts and one in diamonds.

Of course, if West, over the double of 1-No Trump, had made a weakness takeout of 2-Diamonds his side would have been in a makable contract, but he passed on the hope that the doubled contract could be made for a top score. Anyway, if he bid the diamonds, the opponents would have gone into spades, though not for any top score.

20 Persons Register For Bus Excursion to Fort George G. Meade

Twenty persons already have registered for the excursion to Fort George G. Meade, May 17 and 18, when relatives and friends of men in Company G will be entertained by the soldiers in camp. Mrs. Sylvia E. Hinz, chairman of the Southern Service Committee of Cumberland, announced yesterday.

Mrs. Hinz said that a bus has been chartered for the trip and added that the committee is hopeful at least fifty persons will register by Wednesday, May 14, the final date for enrolling for the excursion.

There's a Bit of Rembrandt in All of Us, Says Artist Who 'Forced' Negro to Paint

By NORMAN WALKER

BATON ROUGE, La.—A conviction that in everyone lies latent a natural artistic flair prompted an advanced art student at Louisiana State University into undertaking an experiment.

His success has 23-year-old Howard Mitchem thinking about tossing away his own brushes and turning to teaching.

One evening the Vicksburg youth, stone deaf, by the way, tired of completing canvases. A Negro janitor, sweeping up after an untidy sculpture class, suddenly found Mitchem offering him a scrap of canvas, some tubes of colors and a brush.

Art Begins At Home

"Here go home and paint me a picture," Mitchem commanded, and stalked off. The Negro, Felton Coleman, brought his materials home to a puzzled wife and children. But he went to work and soon brought back a picture, his own cabin done in brilliant colors.

Ever since then Coleman has spent his evenings painting at home by the light of a kerosene lamp. Intent neighbors crowd at his elbow.

Less than a year after he began, Coleman's brightly-colored and strongly composed "Baylism" appeared by invitation at the annual exhibition of Louisiana artists at the capital.

Now the painting is on permanent exhibit at the L.S.U. art school.

Felton Coleman, Negro janitor at Louisiana State University art school, was ordered to paint by Howard Mitchem, advanced art student. Coleman did, surprisingly well.

where walls continually are being painted and repainted with student murals, and a sledge hammer annually pulverizes the sculpture class productions.

Uses Dime Store Paints
"Coleman can be the greatest artist of his race, at least in the south," Mitchem predicts taking up his favorite subject—hidden talents. "It's a pity the opportunities to learn are not in reach of more of his people. They all have talent. Painting gives them a way to express themselves. And they've got a great deal to say."

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

SUDDENLY there came the sound of a whistle. The stranger was instantly alert.

"You folk stay here in this room and count to a hundred, if you want to see the dame and the guy we've got, again," he told them sternly. "One funny move out of any of you—and they'll get humped so quick you won't believe it."

He turned and the darkness swallowed him up. They heard sounds from the house, movement, murmurs of voices, and knew that the stranger had not been lying when he said that the house had been surrounded. They stared at each other, wordless, until suddenly the major made an impulsive movement towards the French door. Instantly Betsy was upon him, clinging to him, crying out sharply. "No, no—he'll kill Tom! He said he would—and he wasn't fooling!"

The major nodded and stood still. The sounds outside died away, silence crept in again, as though it were some living, tangible thing that had been frightened away by the last hour or so. Out in the jungle the flickering row of lights was gone; silence had moved back there, and it was broken at last by the queer, rumbling barking of an alligator.

The people huddled in the room were still gripped in the horror of what had happened, and when they heard slow, halting footsteps in the patio, they held their breath, watching the French door with wide, frightened eyes. So it was that Tom found them when he stepped across the threshold, carrying Natalie in his arms.

There was a moment of stupefaction; then Betsy cried his name and plunged across the room and upon him. He laid Natalie on a couch and turned to take the sobbing Betsy into his arms.

"Oh, Tommy, Tommy—darling, DARLING—I thought they'd killed you," she wailed, clinging to him.

Tommy's arms closed about her and there was a curiously startled look in his eyes as she kissed him. A look that she caught as she kissed him the second time. Then a hot wave of color swept over her face and she drew back, stammering.

"Well, you were gone so long—and that awful man was here—"

Mrs. Edmonds and Lucy were working over Natalie and they looked up to say reassuringly,

"She's all right. She's only fainted."

"Neither of us was harmed," Tom explained swiftly. "We were simply held prisoners until the boat could take the off the island—but what happened here?"

He looked at Brooks, still unconscious, a great cut on his temple, and at Bill, who was slowly trying to sit up, and wincing as his wounded shoulder throbbed furiously.

Swiftly, concisely, the major explained what had happened. Tom listened intently, nodding when the major had finished.

"I know now that the shipwrecked sailors were from an oil tanker that they scuttled to avoid capture," said Tom. "It was a German ship, trying to run the blockade. The English were watching for her, and when she came out of the Caribbean, after loading at Vera Cruz, they took her."

Rather than allow the prize to fall into the hands of the enemy, the ship was scuttled. That much I gathered from things the men let fall as they were waiting to be taken off. They were pretty sore about their contact man being murdered—and they talked a lot more than their leader wanted. I imagine the fellow who was here was really in charge, and he could probably have shut them up if he'd been around."

As it was, they talked their heads off. Fortunately, I know enough German to be able to understand some of what they were saying—"They were German?" demanded the major.

"Most of them," answered Tom quietly. "They were taken off by a tramp steamer that had evidently been waiting off-shore ever since the other ship was scuttled and they took to the lifeboats. And—they are to be smuggled ashore into the United States along the Gulf coast. There's a pretty thought, eh, Major?"

"Very pretty," said the major grimly. "But it only carries out what the Dies Committee on un-American Activities has been saying for months."

There was a little moan and Natalie sat up, one hand touching the disordered curls clustered on her forehead. She looked dazedly from Mrs. Edmonds to Tom and the major, and smiled ruefully.

"That was pretty silly of me, wasn't it?" she apologized. "I suppose I fainted—" Then her eyes fell upon Brooks, who still was unconscious. "Oh!" she cried, and got shakily to her feet, stumbling to the side of the sofa where he lay.

"Oh, my darling—my darling! What's happened? Who did this?" She was kneeling beside him, crying, patting his cheek, wincing before the sight of that ugly cut on his forehead that Mrs. Edmonds had carefully bathed and cauterized.

"He'll be all right, Mrs. Marchbanks," Mrs. Edmonds tried to soothe her. "It was an ugly blow."

"Well, don't just stand there! Somebody get a doctor. Oh, Brooks!" she sobbed.

"Get a doctor, my eye!" blazed Terry. "What the heck—do you think he's the only guy that's hurt? What about Bill here? He's SHOT! Don't you suppose we'd get a doctor if we could?"

Natalie looked up at Terry, as though realizing for the first time that there was anybody else in the place except Brooks. And before the bright, hot anger in Terry's eyes, she flushed and said awkwardly, "I'm—I'm sorry. I forgot about our being prisoners here."

"It's all right," said Terry ungraciously, turning back to Bill.

"Up and at 'em, baby," whispered Bill, grinning a little, his hand curled about hers.

"Darling, does it hurt—so terribly?" Terry pleaded.

"Shucks—it's nothing. I almost enjoy it, as a matter of fact," said Bill and set his teeth hard as a spasm of pain shook him and his white face made a liar of his gallant words.

"Oh, this is awful," Lucy cried out wildly. "To have to stand around here helpless—with people hurt, maybe dying, needing things."

"Lucy, hush!" pleaded Orvin. To the others he apologized awkwardly. "She's pretty easily upset. You'll have to overlook—"

"Pretty easily upset my eye," Betsy cut in grimly. "Well, I've always prided myself on having strong nerves. When you're on your own in a world that's not overly friendly, you get that way. But it would be no trick at all for me to explode and fly in all directions. Come on, Lucy, let's make some coffee. I think it would do everybody good."

"Stout feller!" said Tom under his breath as she passed him. "Smile when you say that, mister," Betsy said, with a game grin. "That's an insult, nowadays!"

Choice of Site Caused High Cost In Building Camp

Engineer and Contractor at Fort Meade Say They Were Overruled

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP)—The engineer and the contractor employed at Ft. George G. Meade told Senate investigators here that an army official's choice of a site was a major reason why the cost soared far above estimates.

This testimony was given by W. C. Roberts, project engineer for the J. E. Greiner Company, which furnished engineering service for building the Maryland camp, and John A. Stallfort, president of the Consolidated Engineering Corporation, Baltimore building contractors.

Built as an expansion of existing facilities, the camp was originally estimated to cost $8,000,000 while its ultimate cost may reach $22,000,000, army officials said, including enlargements of the original plans.

Engineer Overruled

After unsuccessfully recommending that the new construction be placed West of its present location on sander soil, Roberts told the committee, he then recommended that a seven-building hospital of 1,000 beds be located there, but was again overruled.

Instead, he testified, the hospital was located on rolling ground with poor drainage which made the cost "very much higher."

Stallfort told the committee that responsible for selecting the camp the choice of location had made the work "terrifically expensive" because rainy weather produced a "terrific quagmire," there being "no natural drainage in the area."

Major General James Kelly Parsons, former Third Corps Area commander, told the committee that "I am the only man in the United States army or elsewhere" who was

NO DATES FOR THIS TEACHER!

Miss Ruth Stilson, 22, of Providence, R. I., above, teaches aviation at Wentworth Military academy, Lexington, Mo.—the only woman to teach flying in an American military academy. There are 350 cadets in the school and girls are scarce in Lexington. Miss Stilson's Wentworth contract stipulates—she must not date cadets. Here she uses a sign to notify cadets of that fact.

"I had my reasons for establishing the post there," he said. "I wanted to save every space possible to train these men."

He chose the site despite recommendations of the engineers, he said, because he believed he would obtain greater space for training which had been cramped, especially for artillery practice. "I assume," he told the committee, "that the Twenty-ninth Division was sent out there to train and not save money."

The engineer and contractor attributed part of the increased cost to the fact that it was built in winter months when work would ordinarily be suspended and to orders which they said the army frequently issued for completing portions of the camp fast

Letter-Writing Parents Advised By Doctor Myers

"Uncle Remus's" Communications to Sons, Daughters Should Be Read

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.
My fellow parents who would like to improve their letters to their children ought to read the letters of a very wonderful father to his young son and daughters. I refer to Joel Chandler Harris, known to most of us as Uncle Remus. Where is the child who does not enjoy Brer Rabbit?

You wonder what kind of letters

Uncle Remus would write to his sons and daughters. Well, you can read them in the biography of Joel Chandler Harris by his daughter, Julia Collier Harris; Houghton, Mifflin Co., 1918.
His sixteen-year-old son went alone from Atlanta to Quebec to visit his grandparents. During his visit Joel Chandler Harris wrote: "Try to be as respectful to your grandfather and grandmother as possible. Bear in mind that they have lived long out of the world, so to speak, and try not to treat them with that superciliousness so often affected by boys of your age. Remember that learning is merely an accomplishment and not a virtue, and if they seem to you to be ignorant, bear in mind that, in turn, you will seem to be ignorant to your descendants."

Understanding Letters
"Well, we are all well here. The place is just as you left it, except the hole made in the air by your absence, and it is a pretty large one, too. I am waiting for those long letters."

From a later letter: "Another thing—when I make a remark or suggestion, don't take it too seriously. You are old enough to have discovered, or, at least, to have suspected, that, except in the matter of morals, it is impossible to map out a young man's career by means of advice. All I can do is to give you some of the results of my experience. I am much more interested in seeing you grow up strong-bodied and clean-minded than I am in your career. A clean-minded man will be everything that he should be. I should like to see you with a will strong enough to resist all forms of temptation. Your career will then take care of itself."

Still later: "It is very gratifying to me to know that you have made an impression on people, Lord! Lord! don't disappoint 'em, and don't disappoint your mammy and daddy. (More lecturing.)"

Space does not permit me to quote the funny things he writes his daughters, and his replies to his boys' request for advice in his love affairs. There was no wall between Uncle Remus and his children. The letters by Joel Chandler Harris to his sons and daughters should prove excellent material for study groups of parents of adolescent children; good material for a discussion in a men's Bible class; good material for a sermon.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. Is it well to pay a child to help at regular chores about the house?

A. As a rule, it is not.

Q. What do you consider the most unkind word a parent or teacher can use to a child?

A. "Dumbbell," or similar words. And how wrong some parents who are Sunday school teachers, missionaries or preachers are in accordance with this standard!

A back game of chess means the continuance of a game on the strength of a hypothetical move

PENCIL OF DESTRUCTION

This innocent-looking pencil is one of the gadgets demonstrated before law enforcement officials in New York by J. D. Parsons, FBI expert, in exposing tricks used by saboteurs. The pencil is filled with chemicals that generate a flame (inset) hot enough to burn through steel. Such pencils were frequently used during the World War to start fires on Allied ships.

Illness of Several Years Is Fatal to Former Tannery Worker

PETERSBURG, W. Va., May 1—James Hogbin, 65, son of the late James and Hannah Shobe Hogbin, Petersburg, died at his home in South Petersburg this morning after an illness of several years. He was married twice. First marrying Miss Made Cross, Parsons, who preceded him in death. The following children survive by his first marriage: Mrs. Wilda Daugherty, Petersburg; Mrs. Glen Hogbin, Akron, Ohio.

The second marriage was to Miss Sae Pratt, R.R. who with the following children survive: Mrs. Robert Crawford, Norfolk, Va.; Brook Martin, Martinsburg; Carl Hogbin, Martinsburg; Boyd, Whitmer, Hable, Bernier, Eugene, Evevale and Gene Hogbin, Petersburg.

Other survivors are Mrs. Cleveland Hamilton and Mrs. A. N. Cline, Petersburg; Mrs. Dolph Struck, Akron, Ohio; and Mrs. Janie Hogbin, Washington Court House, Ohio, all sisters.

He was an employee at the United States Leather Company tannery for years until his health got so bad he was affiliated with the Presbyterian church.

Parsons P-T.A. Holds Meeting

Program Is Sponsored by Kiwanis Club; Plans Made for Clinic

PARSONS, W. Va., May 1—The Parent-Teacher association met yesterday evening in the auditorium of the Parsons graded school with the Kiwanis club in charge of the program. The program consisted of short discussions on "How to interest parents in P-T.A. work," "County-wide P-T.A.," and "Economic Inferiority," by William F. Repair, Ellis J. Von Haven and the Rev. Robert O. Lucke.

Recently elected P-T.A. officers are Mrs. Millard E. Hilliard, president; Ralph Wimer, vice-president; Miss Eileen Renick, secretary-treasurer. Plans have been made by the officers to increase the popularity of P-T.A. work in the county. The association is also making plans to sponsor a pre-school clinic here next August.

Clinic committee members are Mrs. William Hamby, chairman; Mrs. R. E. King, Mrs. James English and Miss Stella Flanagan; publicity committee members are Mrs. William F. Repair, Miss Edith Stemple and Miss Eileen Renick.

The Parsons Parent-Teacher association is now affiliated with both the State and National organizations.

WPA Leaders Meet

WPA recreation project leaders of Tucker county met yesterday afternoon at the recreation hall here, with Mrs. Iney Griffith, county recreation supervisor, and Harry Campbell, Parsons recreation leader, in charge of the meeting.

The program consisted of discussions on nature work and sports work in the recreation centers of the county. The next meeting will be held May 15 at Thomas.

Parsons Wins

Parsons high school footballers won their fourth straight game here yesterday evening by defeating the Davis Wildcats by a score of 16-7.

Coach Lambert's Panthers made seven runs in the first inning of the game. Kelly, Panther left-fielder, made two three-base hits and Strawdman had one triple.

Gilmore Soldier Is Promoted

GILMORE, May 1 — James A. Jenkins son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Jenkins stationed at Bousiquen Field, Puerto Rico was promoted to the rank of Sergeant, April 1. James is a graduate of Central high school, Lonaconing and enlisted in Cumberland, August 21, 1939. Before going to Puerto Rico, he was stationed at Langley Field, Virginia.

Personal

Charles Livingstone, Clarksburg, W. Va. was a Sunday guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Martin. William Brodie, returned to Pulaski Va., after spending several weeks with his wife and children.

As good almost kill a man as kill a good book; who kills a man kills a reasonable creature, God's image; but he who destroys a good book kills reason itself, kills the image of God, as it were, in the eye.

All-American Rating Is Awarded Central's Orange and Black

LONAONING, May 1 — For the ninth time the Orange and Black, official organ of the Central high school, has been awarded All-American rating from the National Scholastic Press Association's twenty-fourth newspaper critical service.

The paper was first entered in 1929 with high schools of small enrollment. It received no honors in the fourth class with a score of 390 out of a possible thousand. This year the score was 1140.

In the breakdown of the various components of the paper, news stories and typography were rated in the superior ratings. Other departments were scored either excellent or superior. One of the remarks made by the judges was, "You're a superior paper, ably edited, and deserving of all-American rating. You have an unusually well planned editorial page and your leads are excellent."

The scholastic papers are classified according to the method of publication, type of school and frequency of issue. The local school's paper was classified with the public school high schools with enrollment of 200 to 499.

In being awarded the All-American rating the school paper now has received honors from three major press conventions for the first time. Highest honors were won at the Columbia scholastic press association and all-American

4-H Club To Hold Annual May Rally In Grantsville

Election of Officers Also Will Be Held at Meeting

OAKLAND, May 1—The annual May rally of the county 4-H clubs will be held at Grantsville on Saturday, Miss Mildred Barton, home demonstration agent, has announced.

A number of the clubs are giving a demonstration, play or pageant, and there will also be an election of officers and an exhibit of individual and club scrap and notebooks and articles made for home furnishings or home management projects.

Mrs. George Harst will teach folk dancing and games and Miss Mary Louise Paynich will give a demonstration on care and bathing a baby in the home.

The annual style review, usually held at this time, is being postponed until the end of the annual camping period. The meeting will be in the school auditorium beginning at 10:30.

To Build Club House

Members of the Oakland city council have been informed through James L. Pollock, Jr., local supervisor of WPA that federal WPA officials had given approval to a club house project at the Oakland Municipal Golf course.

This project was sponsored recently by town officials, and will be paid for by the town, the Oakland golf club and the WPA, the two former sharing the initial cost of about thirty per cent, or about $2,500, and the WPA the balance. The building will cost $8,500, it is estimated.

Actual construction is expected to start in about ten days, according to WPA headquarters. The building will be erected on a site opposite No. 1 green, on a piece of land recently purchased by the town from Walter Sines. The building will be about 40 by 48 feet, of cement foundation and basement.

Re-elect Officers

At a meeting of the Oakland Civic club Tuesday afternoon all officers were re-elected for the ensuing year as follows: Mrs. E. Z. Tower, president; Mrs. Paul B. Naylor, vice-president; Mrs. E. I. Baumgartner, second vice-president; Mrs. William W. Grant, treasurer; Mrs. Julius B. Littman, secretary; Mrs. Harold H. Harned, assistant secretary.

The club members decided to devote their time to Red Cross work, making articles for war sufferers. In charge of this work will be Mrs. Grant, sewing chairman; Mrs. D. E. Offutt, knitting chairman; Mrs. Baumgartner, production chairman. Mrs. Tower made her annual report in which she detailed the activities of the membership during the past year.

Firemen Busy

Oakland firemen have had little rest in the past two weeks. A blaze, apparently of incendiary origin, in rear of the Edgar Smith store in Loch Lynn was fortunately discovered last night about 11:45 before it had gained much headway and was promptly extinguished by members of the Oakland department who were called there.

The blaze was discovered by Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, who was returning from a professional call in that neighborhood. The fire originated in (Continued on Page 18, Col. 1)

Girl Scouts Hike

Members of the Girls Scout troop took a hike in nearby mountains yesterday, accompanied by Miss Edna Elliott, Mrs. Lowell M. Sowers and Mrs. Lloyd Durr.

A campfire dinner was part of a program to earn cooking badges. Twenty-five members of the troop participated.

Central Honor Roll

Sixty-two students of the Central high school have been placed on the honor roll for the fifth period, it was announced yesterday at the Central high school.

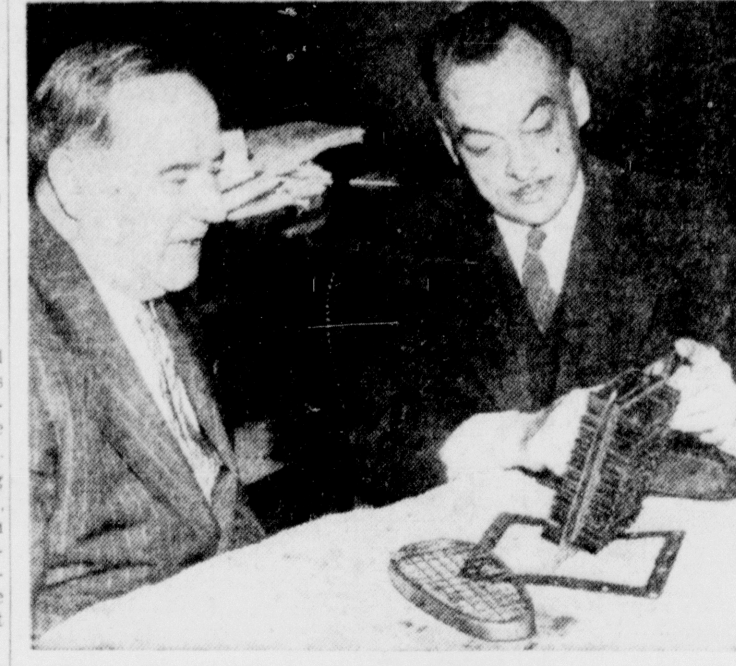

The students of grade twelve placed nineteen members, followed by eighteen members in the grade nine. Grade eleven was third with fifteen members and fourth was grade ten, with ten members on the roll.

To Parade in Virginia

The newly organized student band of the Central high school will parade in Winchester, Va., tomorrow, at the annual Apple Blossom festival.

SEEK CAUSE OF PLANE CRASHES

Senator Bennett Champ Clark, of Missouri, chairman of the Senate committee investigating airline crashes, and Dr. Melville F. Peters (right), of the Bureau of Standards, examine in Washington the air screen and intake system of the Pennsylvania Central Airlines plane which crashed near Charleston, W. Va., April 16. Nine persons were injured. Pieces of cloth were found in the intake of one engine.

Mrs. F. M. Tressler Dies Suddenly; Mother of Thirteen

Observed Twenty-fourth Wedding Anniversary at Home Tuesday

GRANTSVILLE, May 1 — Mrs. Florence May Briskley Tressler, 40, wife of Resley Tressler, died at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Hazel McGilvery hospital, Meyersdale, where she was admitted about 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

Mrs. Tressler was born in Summit Township, near Garrett, Pa., April 5, 1901. She was a daughter of the late John Briskley and Mrs. Clara Shumaker Briskley Stevanus, Salisbury, Pa., natives of that section. She married Mr. Tressler, a lifelong resident of this community, April 29, 1917, and they observed their twenty-fourth wedding anniversary just the day before she died. They had made their home on a small farm, a few miles northwest of here, for fifteen years and for some time Mr. Tressler has served as pastor of the Oak Grove Memorial church. He has also filled the pulpits of neighboring churches in this and the Oakland sections on numerous occasions.

Mrs. Tressler was the mother of thirteen children, twelve of whom survive. They are Mrs. Ray Maust, Mrs. Roy Hetrick and Mrs. Ray Doerr, who reside in this section; Resley Tressler, Jr., Dunne, Rita Bradley, Donald, and Mark Tressler, Marvin and Marvett Tressler, twins, and Abram Tressler, all at home. Also surviving are her mother, her husband, two brothers, Alton Briskley, Meyersdale, and Norbert Briskley, Springs, Pa., five sisters, Mrs. Will Vought, Centerville, Pa., Mrs. Miles Lohr, Garrett, Pa., Mrs. Milo Ringler, Berlin, Pa., Mrs. Verna Landsberry, Somerset, Pa., Mrs. Lloyd Younk, Grantsville, one half-sister, Mrs. Ben Scheeler, Garrett, Pa., and seven grandchildren. Mrs. Tressler had been a member of the Springs Memorial church for about twelve years.

Mt. Savage Store Is Completely Redecorated

One Entire Wall Is Used for Painting Original Rolling Mill

MT. SAVAGE, May 1—The renovation of Barrett's Confectionary store is nearing completion. The store, which is one of the oldest of its kind here, has been entirely redecorated. A new and larger dance floor has been laid in the rear of the building and inlaid floor covering has been put down in the front section. Modern glass show cases and counters have been installed and the booths have been refinished and made smaller. The ceiling and walls of the building are painted light buff with a border of deep brown.

The entire back is covered with a painting of the old rolling mill that was established in 1838 and where the first iron rail in the world was made in 1843. The painting is exceptionally good and has been taken from an authentic picture of the mill. Woodwork throughout the store has been finished to blend with the color scheme and the display windows are especially attractive. Miss Alice Barrett is manager of the store.

Red Cross Group To Sew

Knitting instructions were given to members of the Junior Auxiliary of the Red Cross last night at a meeting in the community building. Mrs. A. H. Amick and Mrs. Nat Guggenheimer, Cumberland, and Mrs. Jarilla Henckel and Miss Maud Houck, officers in the Mt. Savage chapter of the Red Cross, instructed the group.

The organization was given its assignment in sewing and will make

Moorefield District Conference Is Held in Keyser Methodist Church

One Hundred Thirty-six Delegates Attend Seventieth Session

KEYSER, W. Va., May 1.—One hundred thirty-six official delegates were present at the seventieth session of the Moorefield District Conference of Methodist churches, which was concluded in First Methodist church here last night.

At the morning period, which opened at 9:30 a. m. yesterday, District Superintendent C. E. Brandt was in charge of the devotional service. The Rev. O. C. Mitchell, pastor of the local church, made a welcoming address and the Rev. Minor Sprague, of St. Paul's church, Oakland, gave the response.

After the election of the Rev. C. W. Paschel, Franklin, as the district secretary, the remainder of the morning was taken up with committee appointments and reports.

A lunch was served at 12:30 by the ladies of the church. Afternoon devotionals were in charge of the Rev. J. C. Jarvis, Romney. Following the devotional period, business was resumed, further reports being heard. A 3:30 dinner was served by the ladies of the local church.

At the evening service, Dr. Wallace B. Fleming, D. D., Ph. D., former president of Baker university and present vice president of West Virginia Wesleyan college spoke on "The Place of Religion in a World of Science."

Observing the tenth anniversary of the founding of the national organization, and topping the rush season, members of Keyser's Epsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority held a Founder's Day dinner and "Top Hat party" here last night.

At the dinner, held in the Glen hotel, the centerpiece on the table was a large top hat filled with yellow rosebuds, sorority flower. Favors were top hats and canes.

Mrs. Charles J. Maxwell, president, was in charge of the program, which was followed by the reading of the Ritual of Jewels and the Pledge Ritual.

At the conclusion of the program, newly elected officers were installed. They were: president, Miss Grace Plum; vice president, Mrs. Donald Stullenberger; recording secretary, Miss Virginia Reese; corresponding secretary, Miss Mary Casey; and treasurer, Miss Georgianna Foley. Mrs. Maxwell, the retiring president, was presented with a gift from the sorority members as a token of appreciation.

After the closing ritual, a dance for sorority members and their escorts was held in the college clubhouse.

Six Keyser men will attend the West Virginia Section of the American Society of Civil Engineers at the Waldo hotel in Clarksburg, W. Va., Friday.

An address by Earnest L. Bailey, state road commissioner, will feature the dinner meeting at 6 p. m.

Those who will attend from Keyser are: J. Paul Blundin, Clev. Swecker, Harold J. Snyder, Fred J. Pfeiffer, C. R. Nuzum and Emory Ireland.

Personsals

Dr. and Mrs. Thad Huffman will leave tomorrow for Philadelphia to attend the annual Blue and Gold Ball at Hahnemann Medical college, of which Dr. Huffman is a graduate.

Larry Miller Breaks Dyehouse Game Mark

Pacing Dye Lab pinner remained well on top in the Celanese Dyehouse League race by taking four of six games from the runnerup Winches crew in recent firing, one of the matches being the runoff of a protested clash March 15.

Shipping pulled close to the first division by taking two of three from Finishing, while the Jiggs outfit was moving into the No. 3 slot with a forfeit victory over Examination.

Larry Miller, rolling for Dye Lab, was "Mr. Big" of the week with 267-519, the former mark being a new game record. Jack Ekan held the former game count of 263. The

Blitzkriegs Open Up in Celanese League

The Score Heads' lead in the Celanese Staff Mixed League has been seriously threatened by the Blitzkriegs following the pace-setters 2-1 loss to the Wise Guys and the Hoboes in matches last week at the Rocky Top. The Meanies blanked the Rum Dums in the other encounter. Set honors for the evening went to Jim Synons, who had 213-515 for the Wise Guys. Others over 400 were Bob Warner, Sore Heads, 409; George Williams, Wise Guys, 408; Blaine Wilkins, Hoboes, 476; and Bill Dennison and Bill Kennedy, Blitzkriegs, 407 and 406, respectively. The scores:

Nurse Who Specializes in Industrial Field Seems Assured of Opportunity

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D., through your column, if it is possible for a doctor to diagnose a

The field of nursing is going into specialties just as the field of medicine was fifty or seventy-five years ago. There are now special nurses trained for dental work, X-ray and many other branches. A great opportunity, it seems to me, is for nurses to consider the specialty of the industrial nurse.

The Nursing Council on National Defense has recently stated that the demand for additional nurses in military service and in industry is being raised daily. Four thousand nurses will be selected for the Army by July 1.

In 1940, there were 3,271 nurses listed as industrial nurses. This is practically the same as the 1930 census. With the increase in defense preparations, this group will have to be greatly increased. It is estimated that 4,000 additional students should be added to the nursing schools this year to meet various requirements.

More Nurses Needed

In a preliminary survey of industrial hygiene problems in the United States, reported by the U. S. Public Health Service, it is said that only about one-third of the industrial employees in this country now have either full-time or part-time industrial nursing service. This would mean that about 6,000 additional nurses are needed in industry some time in the near future.

The industrial nurse must have additional training in public health subjects and, of course, special training in the particular problems of the industry in which she intends to go. Of course, the basic requirement is a good course in nursing in an accredited and well equipped hospital, where the principles of nursing and surgical, medical, eye and ear cases, are taught. The last two are likely to be particularly important in industrial nursing.

It would seem feasible also at the present time, to institute parallel courses in training hospitals for military service, and industrial service for nurses. In hospitals which are near large factories or universities where trade courses are offered, this would be fairly easy, but all hospitals should make an effort at the present time to supplement their courses in this way. In the case of the industrial nurse, training would always be valuable because well-trained industrial nurses will be in demand for a great many years.

The natural loss by marriage, sickness, etc., in the nursing profession is high and, therefore, new units must constantly be trained to take the place of the old ones.

PICTURE NEWS

TIME FOR PRUNING—About May 1 Henry L. Gehling, 72, of Dedham, Mass., will turn a barber loose on this luxuriant foliage which he raises each winter as protection against chill winds. He says it helps him stay healthy.

LEARNING CITY WAYS—In midtown New York sits Pvt. Walter Stampeo, with pigeons from the Fort Monmouth, N. J., army flock. The birds are being trained for "homing" flights back through Manhattan's skyscraper canyons to this midtown cage.

1941 CHOICE—"The American Mother of 1941," as chosen by the Golden Rule Foundation, is Mrs. Dena Shelby Diehl of Danville, Ky., who keeps busy mothering four children.

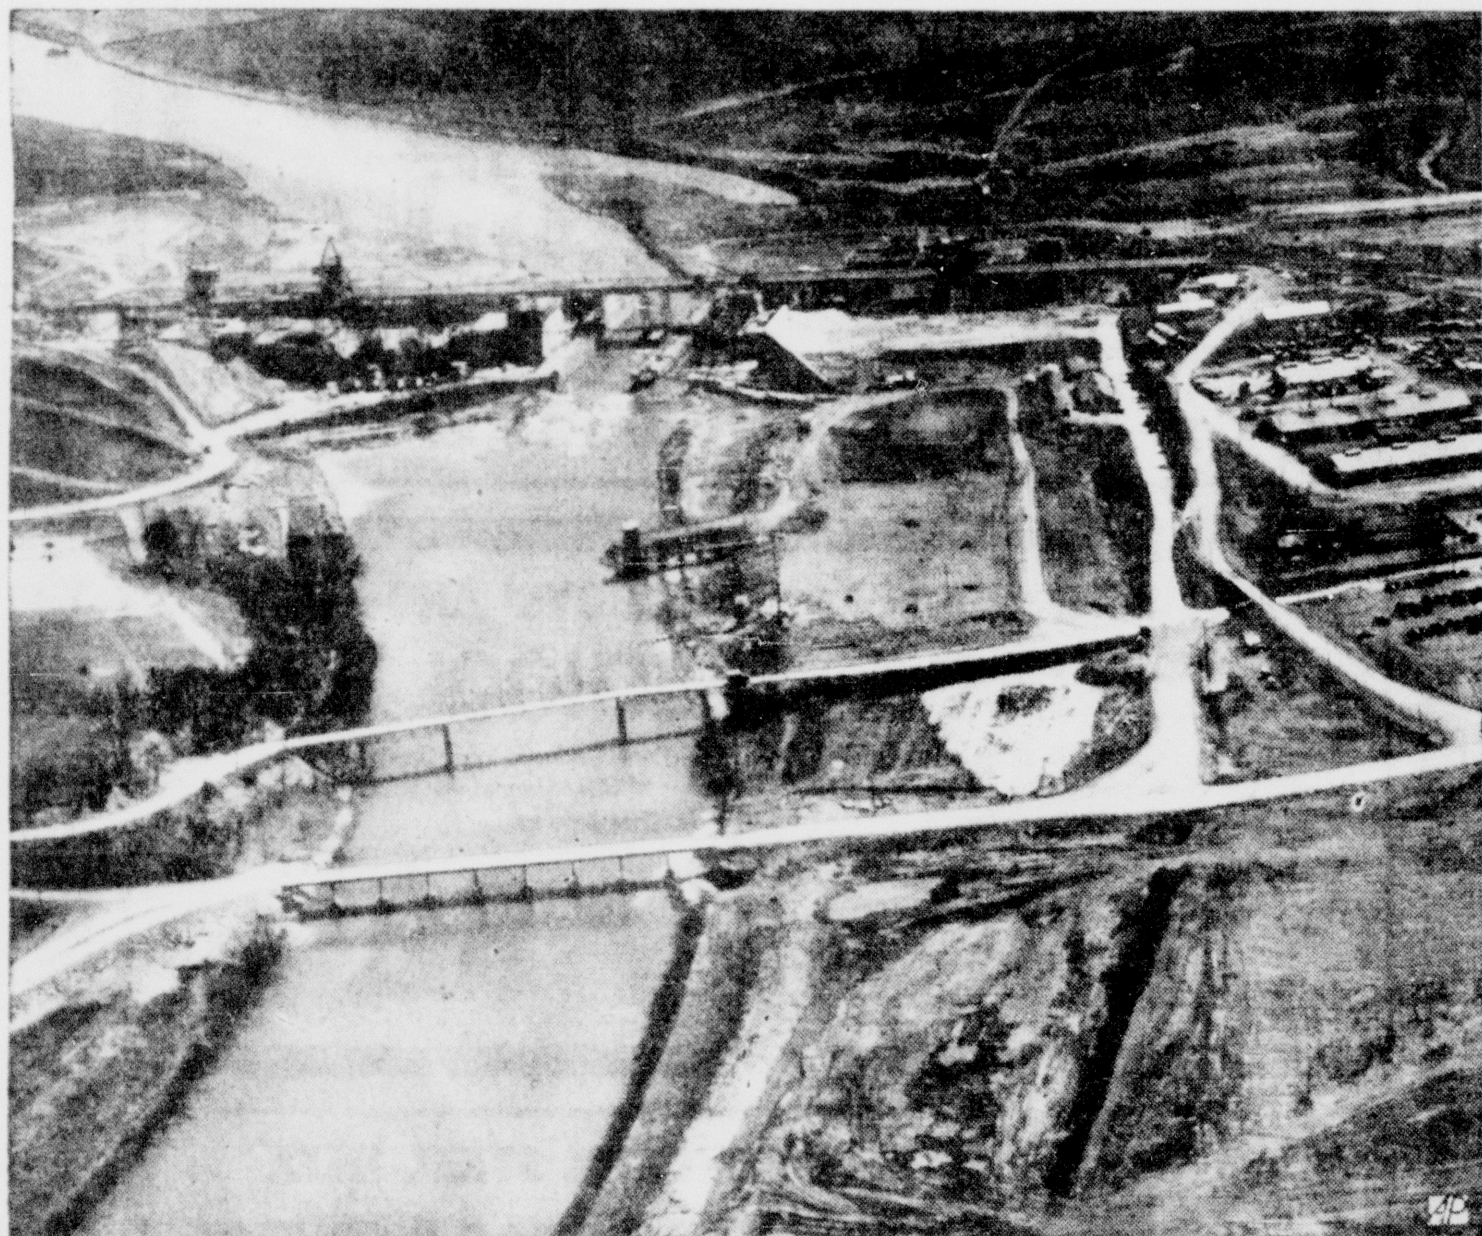

TANKS ON THE MOVE—Some of the completed tanks being built in the American Car and Foundry Co. plant in Berwick, Pa., stretch out, ready to roll off the assembly line. They're part of a 3,089 order worth $70,000,000 and are of the M3 light combat type. Tanks undergo tests on a proving ground. The company is also making armor plate worth $35,000,000.

ROOSEVELT ROMANCE—There were smiles all around after Beverly Hills wedding ceremony uniting James Roosevelt, the President's eldest son, and Romelle Theresa Schneider who was his nurse during a serious stomach operation in 1938.

MEN OF MOMENT—Trading handshakes at a New York banquet given for the British envoy by the English Speaking Union are Viscount Halifax, Britain's ambassador to U.S., and J. P. Morgan, financier and personal friend of Britain's rulers.

CHEROKEE DAM MAKES HEADWAY—Eight months after construction work began, the Tennessee Valley Authority's Cherokee dam near Knoxville, Tenn., looked like this. In the background is the site of the dam itself, and the bridge in the foreground was built to permit swift, uninterrupted movement of heavy loads of rock. The four penstocks of the powerhouse are already in position. The Cherokee will dam the Holston river, form a part of the vast water control system operating in the Tennessee valley.

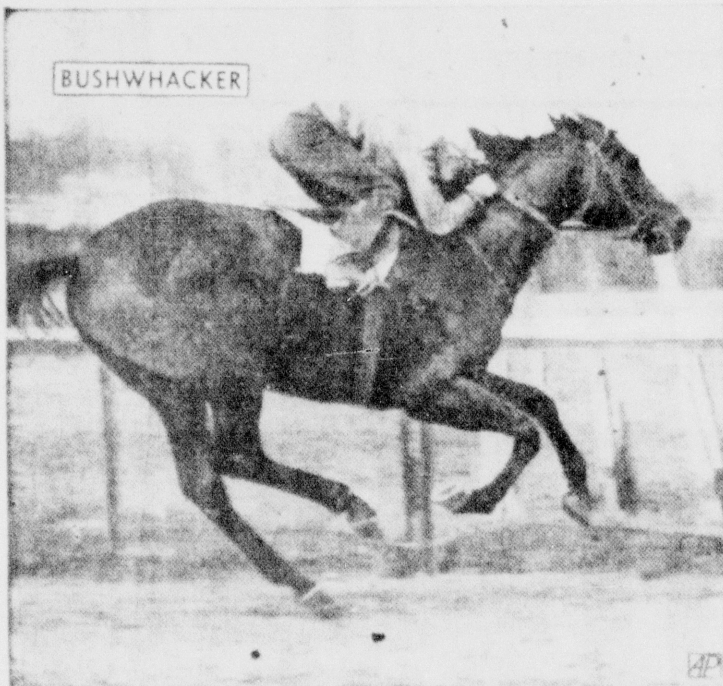

WALL STREET—Robert L. Stott (above), 41, has been nominated for chairmanship of New York stock exchange board, the election scheduled for May 12. This board will choose an exchange president to succeed Wm. McChesney Martin, drafted.

PLUS AND MINUS—On the very day two of the aoudad, or Barbary wild sheep, herd at St. Louis zoo were sold because of crowded quarters, this mother gave birth to two more, giving zoo officials another problem in subtraction.

VOYAGEUR—After 20 years' residence in France Mrs. Florence Gilliam (above), a free-lance writer, returned to U.S., the only American citizen aboard Portuguese liner Guine. She brought along her 18-year-old cat, Lilly-Bill.

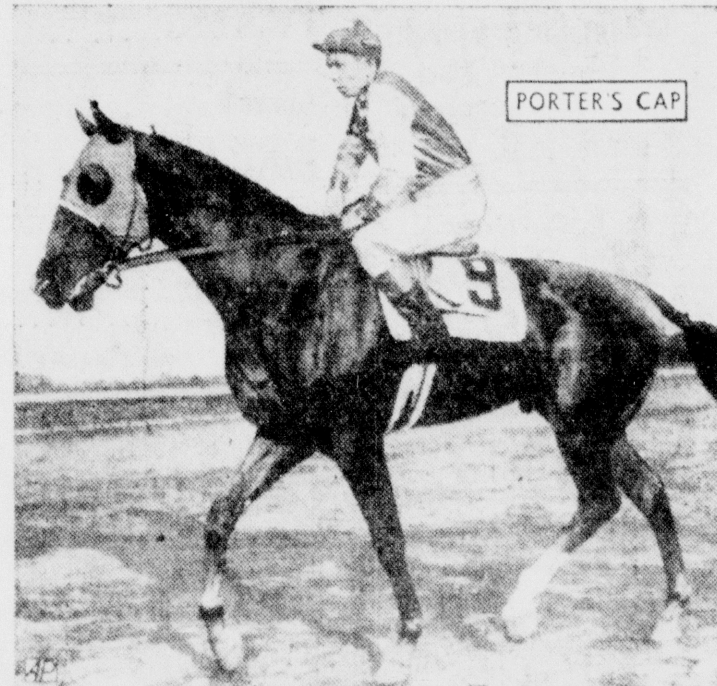

ON HIS WAY—Bushwhacker's showing at Keeneland Park, where he finished out of the money, lowered this brown colt's stock with the railbirds, but May 3 may tell a different story. He's a Kentucky derby entry from the Walmac Farm.

MONEY MAKER?—Well up at the top among the winter campaigners is Curious Coin, a Kentucky derby candidate from Coldstream Stable. The Virginia-bred three-year-old is a chestnut colt sired by Brandon Mint. The derby date is May 3.

DERBY REHEARSAL—Under the silks of Mrs. Anthony Pelletier of New Orleans travels Bull Reigh, another Kentucky derby aspirant for the Churchill Downs classic May 3. Bull Reigh finished second in the west coast Santa Anita derby.

TURF TEST—Whether Porter's Cap, winner of the $50,000 Santa Anita derby, can capture the Kentucky derby May 3 for Owner Charles S. Howard, only that date will tell. Porter's Cap is a strapping chestnut son of The Blonde and The Porter.

Catholic Students Convene Tonight For 3-Day Event

More Than 500 Delegates Expected To Attend Sessions

GETTYSBURG, Md., May 1 (P)—Arrangements were completed here for the attendance of more than 500 delegates and several thousand visitors to the third annual Catholic Students Mission conference—archdiocesan students mission convention, archdiocesan of Baltimore and Washington, opening tomorrow night.

The three-day event will be climaxed Sunday morning at a solemn pontifical military field mass with Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, D.D., apostolic delegate to the United States, as celebrant. The ninth annual archdiocesan conference of clerics and religious will be held Sunday afternoon. The Baltimore, Blue Ridge, Washington, Western Maryland and Southern Maryland conferences will be represented.

Registration will begin at 12 noon tomorrow at Mount St. Mary's college, where the conference will be held, followed by a buffet supper at 6 p. m.

Formal opening is set for 7:15 p. m. in the chapel of the Immaculate Conception with the keynote address by the Rev. John A. Weidinger, Ph.D., of the college.

At 8 p. m., opening night, two entertainments will be offered, an informal dance in the school gymnasium, and a three-act comedy, "Fruit of the Looms," by the Purcell players of Mt. St. Mary's in the main hall.

Saturday morning, delegates may visit the Gettysburg, Pa., battlefield or the tomb of Mother Seton at St. Joseph's College. Mother House of the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent De Paul.

A Catholic high school session will be held Saturday afternoon with the Rev. Robert A. McCormack, M.A., of the college honorary chairman. An address of welcome will be given by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John L. Sheridan, M.A., LL.D., president of Mount St. Mary's.

proved to mean he would be Churchill's successor should the latter leave office—this despite the fact that the short, pudgy Canada-born publisher long has been an isolationist pole apart from the internationalism of Churchill's foreign policy.

Merges Ministries
Churchill also moved to meet another frequent criticism—charges of delays at docks where the turn around is essential to speedy land movements of supplies—by merging the ministries of transport and shipping under one head, Frederick James Leathers.

The new ministry will be called the ministry for wartime communications.

So far as is known, the changes would not affect the war cabinet. Beaverbrook, as aircraft production minister was a member of war cabinet, but that does not necessarily mean Moore-Bragazon would be taken in.

The new title given to Beaverbrook was chosen because it was essential to find a non-departmental designation. In such a category are the lord privy seal, lord president of the council and minister without portfolio.

"RAILROADED TO ASYLUM"

Jeanette Scott Seymour Young, 27-year-old concert pianist from New York, filed a $1,000,000 damage suit in Los Angeles, charging she was wrongfully committed to an insane asylum and there forced to undergo a sterilization operation. Named as principal defendant is Ralph M. Lewis, who the suit says is head of the Rosicrucian Order, with whom she says she had a blighted romance.

Chamber of

program of defense production on its normal conditions.

2. Against treasury proposals for heading off inflation by reducing consumer purchasing power through taxation, the chamber proposed that inflation be prevented by "increased production (of non-defense goods) to keep pace with consumer demands."

3. Against the administration plan to raise $3,500,000,000 in new taxes to help meet defense costs the chamber proposed that non-defense expenditures of the government be slashed $2,000,000,000 so that "the taxation then necessary to provide for defense will be proportionately less and, to that extent, better borne by our people."

Discuss Defense Financing

The problem of defense financing was discussed prior to adoption of the resolutions by Chairman Mariner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board and Elsworth C. Alvord, chairman of the chamber's finance committee.

Eccles said he was generally in accord with the treasury's tax plans and backed the taxation method of preventing inflation. He suggested, furthermore, that ways of controlling the volume of installment buying should be investigated, and declared the public should now reduce its buying of "consumers' durable goods"—such as automobiles, houses and refrigerators—both to avoid inflationary price rises and to free materials for defense production.

In discussing taxation, the federal reserve chairman opposed a general sales tax although he said "selective sales taxes" on automobiles, mechanical refrigerators and similar items "are justifiable and necessary at this time." He said

"the first source of defense revenue should be the corporation tax and the excess profits tax because, in general, corporations are the greatest beneficiaries, directly and indirectly, from defense expenditures."

Alvord said the treasury's goal of $3,500,000,000 in new federal revenues was "realistic" but he branded as "severe and unrealistic" the tax methods by which the treasury would raise the money. He proposed a $2,000,000,000 cut in the government's non-defense costs and a tax program based on raising only $1,000,000,000 from increased income taxes and $1,500,000,000 from excise or sales taxes, a small payroll tax, or a combination of those.

Grand Jury

recognition in care of his attorney to appear before the grand jury tomorrow.

State's Attorney J. Bernard Wells of Baltimore said tonight he drew up the special charge upon instructions from the grand jury, sending the copies, or arrest order, to Sheriff Joseph C. Deegan of Baltimore.

Deegan denied he had received any order to arrest Houck or that he had conferred with Frederick county officials in connection with notifying the delegate of the charges.

Court May Set Bail

Wells said that if Houck surrenders himself tomorrow, bail will be set by the criminal court judge. Court clerks refused to disclose contents of the presentment until they were given official word from Frederick county authorities that Houck had been notified. A ruling of the Supreme bench prohibits charges being made public until persons charged have been apprehended or bail set.

Houck, reached by long distance telephone tonight, declined comment.

Asked if he would come here tomorrow, he said, "I don't know." Houck was summoned before the grand jury in the course of its investigation of an alleged effort to influence votes of legislators on a measure that would have limited a drug store chain to one package goods liquor license.

Graft Charge Aired

During the general assembly session, the Senate's grand inquest committee investigated claims by two of the drug firm's officers that $2,500 had been demanded of them to kill the license bill.

Arthur Nations, president of the drug company, appeared before the grand jury today. Other witnesses during the day included Clarence A. Wolf, investigator for the state license bureau; states attorney Wells; John Spellisay, secretary to Governor O'Connor; and former State Senator Raymond E. Kennedy.

Houck, whose home is in Walkersville, is a former Maryland American Legion commander. A graduate of Frederick High school, he enrolled at Gettysburg, Pa., college, but left to enlist the day the United States declared war on Germany in 1917. He served overseas with the fifty-eighth artillery.

Houck has served Frederick county in the House of Delegates since 1937.

Battle Raging in to the major German-Italian base at Tripoli.

Axis Attack Expected
But this new German-Italian attack is considered particularly timely now that Greece has been conquered.

British observers expected axis attempts to reach the Nile valley and the Suez, from Libya and by landing forces in Syria and Palestine, before the British have a chance to put the 48,000 troops rescued from Greece back into the desert war.

Most of the forts and emplacements surrounding Tobruk were built by the Italians before Australian and other British imperial forces captured them Jan. 22 after a 24-hour assault.

Presumably the British have improved and strengthened the position since its capture, and have employed lessons learned in their own successful attack.

40,000 British Lost In Greece, Berlin Says

BERLIN, May 2 (Friday)—(P)—German military sources said early today that two-thirds of the British Expeditionary Force, or about 40,000 men, can be regarded as "lost" in Greece.

(This is almost diametrically opposed to British official statements which say that 48,000, or 80 per cent of the force of 60,000 men, were rescued.)

Weather in Nearby States

WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA—Partly cloudy today and Saturday. Slightly cooler in southwest portion Saturday.

WEST VIRGINIA—Mostly cloudy today and Saturday with a few scattered afternoon showers; little change in temperature.

Convoys

He declared that "we will not have peace merely because politicians shout peace or as an answer to our great desire. Neither you nor I nor the president nor Mr. Lindbergh will decide the matter. The question of peace or war will be decided by Mr. Adolf Hitler, and he will answer that question as suits his best interests, irrespective of what we do."

"Totalitarian method of government, of production, of economics and trade will dominate the world, or else the democratic method of free men, free enterprise, enlarged trade areas and high standards of living is going to rule," Wilkie continued. "We cannot escape this struggle by locking ourselves within our boundaries, living on defeatism, negation and isolation."

Wilkie's views were endorsed editorially by Colliers as "wise and right" and the magazine expressed approval of United States naval convoys for shipments to Britain.

Isolationists Mean Well

Wilkie's article reviewed the arguments of the isolationists and commented that "every one of us must acknowledge that the isolationists are speaking from the heart, that they are telling us what they really believe. Their motives are high, their intentions good and some of their arguments are persuasive."

Wilkie reviewed Germany's military successes to date, touched on his recent trip to England and concluded: "and I am, as are all those with whom I have talked, willing to go on record that Hitler can not win this war without conquering Britain; to prevail he must write his peace in London."

England Needs Help

"And Hitler can never successfully invade the life of Britain provided her sea lanes are kept open," he added, "but by the same token Britain probably will fail unless American helps her immediately and effectively to keep those life lines unbroken."

And then, in 1942 and 1943 "when the combined airplane and armament production of two hundred million free people in England, the United States, Canada and Australia give to Britain a sufficient, assured and overwhelming superiority in the air, the enslaved peoples of France and Belgium and Holland and Norway and of all the conquered countries—perhaps even the enslaved people of Germany—will begin to arise and this monstrous menace to the liberties of free men everywhere will be eradicated utterly."

Associated Press officials expected to attend the dinner Friday night include: Kent Cooper, general manager; W. J. McCambridge, general manager of Press Association, an AP subsidiary; and Alan Gould, executive assistant to Mr. Cooper, from New York; and Brian Bell, chief of the Washington bureau.

Special guests at the dinner will include: Admiral Russell Wilson, superintendent of the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis; and Maj. Gen. Walter S. Grant, commander of the army's Third Corps area with headquarters in Baltimore.

Church Women

Hear Address

Washington Woman Speaks at Presbyterian Church Here

One hundred and eighteen women representing eighteen churches attended the May luncheon of the Cumberland Council of Church Women, yesterday at the lecture hall of the First Presbyterian church, Washington street.

Mrs. Peter G. Ervin gave the invocation. Mrs. S. R. Neil, president of the Cumberland Council of Church Women, welcomed the group. Miss Jane Luman sang the "Lord's Prayer" and "O, Thou My Redeemer" with Mrs. Kenneth Beck at the piano. Mrs. Vernon C. Ridgely gave the devotional and Mrs. Robert Critchfield, general chairman of the luncheon was in charge of the program.

Mrs. William A. Eisenberger introduced Mrs. Frank Edgington, a leader in the Council of Church Women in Washington.

The theme of these luncheons held all over the United States yesterday was, "The Kingdom Come" and so it was that Mrs. Edgington chose "In the Light of Eternity" for her topic.

Impressing upon her audience the unimportance of the ordinary small differences "In the Light of Eternity" in the world chaos of today everyone is learning that the important things are the eternal things and not small differences, Mrs. Edgington said.

The church and the lecture hall were decorated in spring flowers by Mrs. Critchfield and Miss Bess Shearer. Mrs. S. R. Neil, Mrs. A. L. Rogers, Mrs. T. Lorr Richards and Mrs. W. C. Burrell were in the receiving line. Mrs. John S. Cook was chairman of tickets. Mrs. E. R. Kellough's circle were hostesses; they were Mrs. Lester Tye, Mrs. Raymond Meffer, Mrs. Mary Speed, Miss Jennie Gardner, Mrs. Thomas Haller, Mrs. Margaret Dowling, Mrs. G. I. Martin and Mrs. George Sykes. They were assisted by Mrs. Harold W. Smith's circle, composed of Mrs. Thomas Waller, Mrs. Edgar Duke, Mrs. Henry Duke, Mrs. Lloyd Eyr, Mrs. Bernard Pull and Mrs. Leila Wood.

British Massing

previously landed had not yet passed through the country.

On their part the British insisted firmly that the Iraq-British treaty entitles Britain to maintain as many troops in Iraq as she considers necessary to keep empire communication lines open.

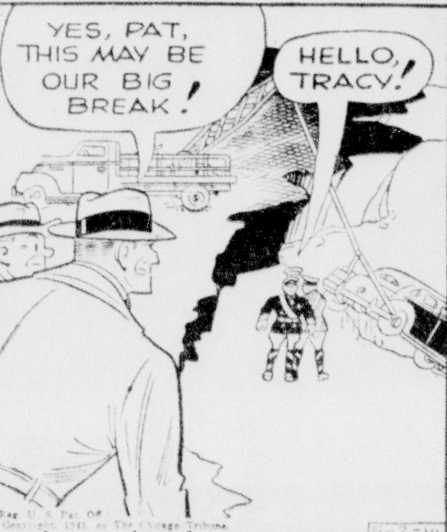

At the same time the British demanded the removal of the Iraq army concentrations from the vicinity of Habbaniyah. In the interim, the new British troops were disembarked at Basra without incident.

Tunes and occasions and provocations will teach their own lessons. But with or without right, a revolution will be the very last resource of the thinking and the good.—BURKE.

Walters Is Star as Reds Stop the Dodgers

Strikes Out Two Pinch Hitters With Bases Full

Doubles with Two Out and Scores Winning Run in Eleventh

By JUDSON BAILEY

BROOKLYN, May 1 (AP)—Bucky Walters, the imperturbable, stopped the winning streak of the Brooklyn Dodgers today with his grandest display of courageous pitching and timely hitting for a 2 to 1, eleven-run victory by the World Champions, Cincinnati Reds.

The triumph of the Reds snapped a nine-game string of victories by the Dodgers and came exactly a year to the date after this same Walters, a one-time third baseman for the Phillies, ended Brooklyn's similar nine-game streak at the start of the 1940 season.

Today's tense struggle, played before a crowd of 18,633, was a duel of skill and strategy.

The Reds came through like the masters they are at winning tight games and it was Walters who secured his own winning run.

With two out in the eleventh he hit a liner into center field and the amazement of everybody.

He reached the hit into a double with a throw, Lonnie Frey drew a intentional pass and then Eddie Snodgrass smacked out his third single of the game to bring Walters fly-home.

The Dodgers loaded the bases against him in the last of the ninth, after two were out, Joe Medwick doubled, Dolph Camilli was passed and Jim Waddell stepped out a walk. Bucky just took a little more time than usual and back out Pete Coccarati.

Joe-Wee Reese doubled with two in the tenth, but Dixie Walker raised an easy fly. In the eleventh after Harry Lavagetto fled, Medwick and Camilli hit successive singles and Waddell, a left-handed batter, again walked. Walters never so much as looked to and his dugout. Manager Leo Durocher sent in two left-handed pinch-

ers, Pete Reiser and Babe Lips, and Manager Bill McKechie hurried strong-armed Mike McCormick to left field. But Walters hit down hard and struck both out.

Over the whole route each pitcher gave seven hits.

The result dropped Brooklyn far behind the pace-setting St. Louis Cardinals, who beat the New York Giants, 5-0.

Whirlaway Is "People's Choice" for Derby

"Ol' Debbil Rain" — Race Entries, Results, Selections and Scratches —

Forecast Scares Several Trainers

Our Boots and Porter's Cap Passed over Since Tuesday

By SID FEDER
LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 1 (AP)—The threat of "Ol' Debbil Rain" for Saturday scared the trainers of some of the Kentucky Derby horses into a state bordering on the hinds, but the favorites leading cheers for mud.

The weatherman's tentative prediction of probable local showers for the sixty-seventh running of the "Big Heat," however, left no fears for the man-in-the-street. In the past 48 hours he has passed right on by Our Boots and Porter's Cap, the favorites in today's final call-off of future odds. His clamor boy now wet or dry, was "Whack Whirlaway," who had to lose his last race to become the "people's choice."

The fellows who make a habit of looking at the darker side pointed out that the Derby hasn't been run on an off-track since 1935, when Omaha proved himself a "chip off the old block" by repeating the triumph of his daddy, Gallant Fox.

"We've been lucky for a long time now, so the law of averages is bound to catch up with us," was the consensus of the Gloomy Gus group.

Jockeys Switched on Swain
Except for this cub of mud and man weather promised to toes at this expected "biggest of all" Derbies, the only major development of the day at Churchill Downs found a switch in the jockey lineup, with Johnny Adams assigned to ride the mud-running Swain in place of Johnny Gilbert. The latter was set down at Pimlico for ten days and will not be available.

There was also word in the press box at the Downs that Don Meade would not ride Little Bears, but Owner Rocky Palladino said he had received no notice of this, and expected to hear definitely from Don tonight.

Four of the eleven probable starters held short workouts, with only the rank outsider, Emerson F. Woodward's Valinda Paul, furnishing even a mild surprise. He whizzed over five furlongs handily in 1:00 3-5, much to the surprise of the railbirds and clockers.

East Has Two Standouts
Two of the east's standout candidates clicked over six panels, with J. Fred Byers' Robert Morris, looking just a little more impressive than Lou Tufano's Market Wise, winner of last Saturday's Wood Memorial at Jamaica. "Young Bob Morris" broke five lengths back of Tufano's candidate, and was breathing on his neck when they were eased up. He was clocked in 1:14 1-5 for the three-quarters, two-fifths faster than Robert Wise, Charles Howard's Porter's Cap "blew out" a half mile in 47.4-5.

While the expected record crowd of 100,000 continued to gather in Derbytown from all corners of the country, one of the leading betting commissioners of the Bluegrass bowed his final callover and left Our Boots 8 to 5 favorite to prove that a son of Bull Dog can do the Derby mile and a quarter—and win. This entry of Royce Martin of Toledo was regarded as a shade better than Porter's Cap, at 2 to 1, and since each has proved himself in goosy going—as well as fast—the threat of slop didn't mean a thing.

Whirlaway Is Liked
Hooked up in third place in the final book were Whirlaway and Robert Kleberg, Jr.'s Dispose, at 6 to 1. Everyone you met was talking about Whirlaway's whirlwind speed despite his habit of running wide, which cost him the Derby trial mile Tuesday. The general opinion was that with Eddie Arcaro on his back, he would be more likely to place his fearful half-mile drive in the right spot.

Expensive, who ran last in the experimental at Jamaica two weeks ago, picked up some of his lost backing by his better-than-fast workout yesterday.

Robert Morris was held at 8 to 1 and Market Wise at 12. Surprisingly, Rocky Palladino's Little Bears, who forced Porter's Cap to a drive to win the Chesapeake Stakes two weeks ago was "way up" to 15, and Tom Bragg's Blue Pair, Whirlaway's conqueror in the Derby trial was 20. The outsiders were High Nesbitt's Staretor at 40 and Cleveland Putnam's Swain and Valinda Paul at 50.

CHICAGO (AP)—Luke Appling, Chicago shortstop who is wearing his uniform pants well down his calves this year, smeared each knee with tobacco juice at the home plate. He explained, "So the umpires will know where to call 'em on me."

Feller Wins Fourth Game of the Season

Knocks in Four Runs as A's Are Beaten 13 to 8

Indians Break Out in Heaviest Hitting Spree of 1941 Season

CLEVELAND, May 1 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians' ached power at the plate as well as on the mound with Bobby Feller snatching the victory for both as he set down the Philadelphia Athletics 13 to 8.

The Indians broke out in their heaviest hitting spree of the season but Feller staged a field day all by himself.

The young speedballer batted in four of the Tribe's runs, one of them a fifth inning homer, the second of his major league career.

In the same inning, he recorded his one thousandth strikeout by fanning Jack Knott, the opposing pitcher until that frame.

Feller went on to run his strikeout total to 1,002 or seven for the game, while yielding eight hits.

Homers by Ben McCoy and Bob Johnson drove in six of the A's eight runs. After Knott went to the showers in the fifth, A. R. Johnson and Herman Besse finished on the mound for Philadelphia, but the starter was charged with the loss.

The victory was Cleveland's seventh straight and Feller's fourth.

Bill Leake Chosen To Manage City Police Team

The City Police softball team of the Rocking Chair League announced yesterday that Bill Leake has been chosen to manage the team for the 1941 season.

Leake said all employees of the City of Cumberland and other law enforcement officers are eligible to play on the police team.

A practice session was held by the team yesterday in preparation for the opening game of the season Tuesday.

Cardinals Sweep 3 Game Series With New York

Veteran Lon Warneke Pitches 5 to 0 Shutout over Giants

NEW YORK, May 1 (AP)—The first-place St. Louis Cardinals made a clean sweep of their three-game series with the Giants today as veteran Lon Warneke pitched a nine-hit shutout and, with home runs by Martin Marion and Jimmy Brown to help him along, gained a 5 to 0 decision.

The four-baggers accounted for four of the winner's runs. Brown hit his in the third off Carl Hubbell after Marion had singled, and Marion clouted one off Walter Brown in the eighth with Gus Mancuso on base.

Hubbell was charged with the defeat.

With the Dodgers beaten by the Reds, St. Louis widened its first-place margin over Brooklyn to six-and-a-half percentage points.

Pirates Wallop Phils 15 to 2

PHILADELPHIA, May 1 (AP)—The cellar-dwelling Pittsburgh Pirates gave the Phillies an overdose of their own medicine today when they blasted three Phils pitchers for 23 hits and a 15 to 2 triumph, their first in four games.

Frankie Frisch sent seven left-handed batters into the Pirate line up against St. Johnson who withdrew in the third inning. The Bucs got six runs in that frame off Johnson and Ike Pearson and added four more in the fourth off Pearson and Roy Bruner.

Russ Bauers went the route for Pittsburgh and allowed only five hits.

Preakness Field Of Thirteen Seen

Four Derby Starters Will Probably Run in May 10 Classic

BALTIMORE, May 1 (AP)—A possible field of thirteen for the $50,000 added Preakness stakes May 10 was seen by racing authorities at Pimlico today.

As viewed at present, the Preakness field would consist of four Kentucky derby starters and nine other three-year-olds saved for the Pimlico classic.

King's ranch's Dispose, Woodvale farm's Our Boots, C. S. Howard's Porter's Cap and Calumet farm's Whiteway are the derby horses expected to start in the Preakness.

Being reserved for the May 10 classic are Parker Corning's Attention, Wheatley stable's Bold Irishman, E. K. Bryson's Cavalier, Greentree stable's Monday Lunch, Crispin Ogden's Ocean Blue, George D. Widener's Overdrawn, Cold Stream stable's Curious Con, Ogden Phillips' Kite Cole and C. V. Whitney's Yankee Chance.

Sam White on Top In Merchant Loop

Six members of the Merchant Bowling League, which operated during the 1940-41 campaign at the Diamond, finished out the season with averages above 140, according to official figures announced today.

Top bomber was Liberty Milk's Sam White with 151 for 96 games. "Fritz" Werkmeister, of Harris-Boyer, played the upstarts at a 144 pace, while Gene Howell, of Howell Coal, and Charlie Hixey, a teammate, shared third honors with 144.

Russ Gontlow and George Lemmer, both of Liberty, closed out with marks of 141. Barnes also averaged 140 but rolled in only 34 games. Werkmeister posted the high set of 561 and John King rolled the season's high game of 236.

Howell Coal and Liberty Milk, first and second half winners, respectively, will clash at the Diamond this evening at 7:30 in the championship rolloff. The league will hold its banquet Wednesday, May 7, at Mayfair Tavern with 8 total of 32 prizes to go to White, Werkmeister, King, the high average and set rollers of each team and others. Our Men Seek Liquor License in Cresaptown

Under T. Rhodes Applies for License for Negro Establishment

Four applications have been filed for the new liquor license which Judge D. Lindley Sloan said could be granted to a Cresaptown establishment, it was learned yesterday.

James L. Jones, former constable, of Cresaptown, seeks a Class A, or "A-1" license for premises owned by Mr. and Mrs. Estel C. Kelley and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Winders. The other three applicants, all seeking a Class B, or on-sale, license, include Fay W. Keiser, of Valley Forge, for premises owned by P. M. and Retta J. Warner; Elmer Joseph Craddock, of 623 Elm street, Cumberland, for premises owned by Annie W. Craddock; and Harry S. Cunningham, owner and operator of the Cresap Tavern.

Application for the liquor license Judge Sloan said would be granted to a negro establishment here has been made by Hunter Thomas, of 145 Hanover street, for premises at 28 Bedford street owned by the Holzhut Realty Company.

These new licenses were among those provided for Allegheny county on the basis of its population increase in the past decade. Four have been granted, three here and one in Frostburg.

The application of Herbert W. Smith for a liquor license at 174-S Baltimore street was refused by Judge Sloan.

Most Represent Constitutents

As a practical matter, a man in active office must respond to the

she of a majority of his constituents if he wants to stay in office he pointed out, adding that was his understanding that mar-ity rule was an honored principle of American democracy.

If what the legislator considers is a majority turns out to be a minority, he said, he will probably be penalized at the polls.

Senator Kimble referred to the

00,000 bond issue for new schools at Mt. Savage, Lonaconing and Jersey. Although the Allegheny

County Board of Education opposes the measure, he stated, there was constant agitation on the part of the "groups of people" for the measure. "These groups had a 'percentage' under the present system to petition the legislature, he stated. The senator went on to say that the dissatisfaction of many citizens amounted to "rebellion against certain administrative policies of the local authorities."

Defends Bond Issue

Defending the bond issue, he declared that schools were one of the most worthwhile investments merican democracy could make.

He went on, it is not necessary to spend a million dollars for one school, such as Fort Hill high in understanding, to make it "a great architectural monument." Schools could be "substantial and adequate" to their needs, he said, but not any more.

Under the school board program, districts were neglected, according to Kimble, who stated that the board admitted that conditions were terrible at the Mt. Savage school and the Ellerslie school and at over-crowding existed at Lon-onaconing.

Turning to bills affecting the city

Cumberland, Kimble said he was satisfied to see that Mayor Harry Irvine and City Attorney Charles Z. Hesskett were guests at the meeting.

Then he went on to defend with for the bill providing for salary raises for Cumberland police officers, now awaiting the signature of the governor. A terrific howl went up about the cost of this measure, he said, referring to statements by Mayor Irvine that the city department functions would be curtailed and the library

marks probably closed.

But no complaints were heard

after a $150,000 bond issue passed for the airport, another

$700,000 issue for the Memorial hospital and a $200,000 issue for street improvements.

City asked authorization to issue

$700,000 in bonds for a possible water line.

Provides Referendum

View of the complaint about finances, he added, he decided to provide a referendum for the $700,000 bond issue.

Concerning the police salary bill,

he declared that honest, capable competent officers were entitled to $45 monthly and compensation for services received in line of duty was, as suggested in some quarters, they do not measure up to the qualifications, that is an administrative matter, which is not for the legislature, he stated.

Mayor Kimble went on to stress the importance of the provision for funds set up for police and to be used for this purpose is not to buy an automobile or to "buy a truck."

The legislator also defended his bill to the so-called antitrust measure and took occasion to say that those who attributed his bill to this and other measures of "Communist influence." This he denied.

Opposes Judges' Pensions

He will provide for pensions for the judges, he said, but he opposed be-

Local Man Awarded Merit Certificate By Baking Firm

John Sandbower, of Cumberland, has been awarded a certificate of merit from the Grennan Bakeries Inc., for completing two years' service as a truck driver with the firm, without having an accident. He has driven 7,280 miles while in the employ of the company.

Drivers whose safety records are unmarred by accidents for five years or more receive other awards, including stock in the firm.

Driver Is Arrested

Gerald Schaffer, of Bedford street, was arrested yesterday afternoon on Bedford road by Sgt. R. R. Johnson on a charge of careless driving. He was released under $10 bond, pending a hearing today in police court.

cause it provided, among other things, that a judge who served even a year or less would be entitled to a pension under certain circumstances. He noted that an "overwhelming majority" of interested citizens had backed him in his statement, including leaders of bar associations throughout the state, who told him they could not express their opposition publicly for obvious reasons.

Kimble said he likewise opposed a bill providing pensions for court clerks and registers of wills, despite his friendship with Clerk Robert

Jackson, whom he praised highly as

"distinguished and lovable."

Pensions for the average working man are provided by the Social Security act on the basis of their own contributions, plus that of their employers, he pointed out, declaring it would be unfair to provide a one-sided pension system for men who sought election to the offices

they held.

Defends State's Attorney's Bill

The senator, who was introduced by President Harvey Weiss, told of legislative routine and also referred to the fact that he had been honored by appointment to the state legislative council.

The speaker discussed briefly other measures of local interest, including the provision of an assistant state's attorney. Because of the fact that the constitution limits

the state's attorney salary to $3,000, he declared it would not be practicable to require him, as proposed in some quarters, to devote his full time to the office instead of engaging in private practice. Thus, an assistant was the logical solution, he said.

Other guests at the meeting, besides Mayor Irvine and City Attorney Heskett, were H. G. Shores, of Keyser, and T. L. Bosman, of Baltimore.

World Events Are Subject of Talk Made to Teachers

Reviews Seven Different Types of Government in Europe

Dr. Herbert B. Bruner, of Teacher's college, Columbia university, guest speaker at the elementary teacher's banquet last evening at the All Ghan Shrine Country Club, Baltimore pike, opened his address by reading provisions of some humorous old contracts which teachers, years ago, had to sign before being allowed to teach.

Among other things, he said, the teachers had to promise "not to go out after dark with any young man, except for Sunday school work; not to engage in dancing or any other immorality while engaged in teaching; and not to marry during the term."

Dr. Bruner then turned serious, and talked on the European situation and the fight the democracies have before them to maintain themselves and the implications for education. He reviewed each of the seven different types of government which he said are influencing the European situation, especially in Russia, Germany, Italy and England, and predicted certain things which would happen when Russia and Germany inevitably clash.

A tremendous defense program is ahead of us for possibly ten years, Dr. Bruner warned, and spoke of its effect on the education and training of youth. He warned while we must be aroused to the situation and prepare to defend ourselves, also the spiritual life must be safeguarded against hatred of a group of people. Hate a government, hate Nazism and its training, but not the people themselves, he added. The German youth are loyal to Hitler because they have been trained to believe in him. Dr. Bruner declared, however, he believes the number of Communists in Germany will give Germany trouble when the clash with Russia comes.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, extended the words of greeting to the group. Mrs. Olive Crowe King, toastmaster, introduced the speakers. Mrs. Blanche Stanton Ginter sang "Spring," "May" and "Love in My Heart."

Mrs. Lillian Speer Stewart was at the piano. The dinner music was furnished by students from Allegheny high school. The group singing was conducted by Miss Lois Williams with Miss Mabel Myers at the piano. The songs were original sung to familiar tunes.

Miss Beatrice Winner, Frostburg, chairman of the intermediate group, extended greetings from her group; Miss Datha Thomas for the primary group.

Other honor guests were Miss Lillian Compton, Mrs. Charles L. Kopp, Miss Winifred Green, Miss Mildred Willison, Miss Jane Botsford and Miss Helen Sandford. About one hundred and fifty principals and teachers of elementary schools of the county attended.

Carl L. Reed, export manager of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, has returned from a visit to distributors of his company's products in various Latin American countries.

Despite many obstacles to business in those countries as a result of the wars in Europe and Asia, progress is being made in relation to trade between those countries and the United States, Reed said.

Most of the trip was made by Pan-American Airways which have air terminals in practically all large South American cities. Among the cities he visited were Mexico City, Guatemala, San Pedro Sula, Panama City, Colon and Havana.

Local Man Indicted By Grand Jury of Somerset County

Two Marylanders were among those indicted this week by the grand jury of Somerset county, Pa. They are:

Jerome Perdue, Jr., of Cumberland, failure to support; and Howard L. Beaman, of Accident, operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor and failure to stop at scene of accident.

Black Topping Of Camden Avenue Discussed by Council

Black topping of Camden avenue by private contract instead of waiting until WPA labor is available was discussed yesterday by the mayor and council and Ralph E. Lashley, who brought up the subject.

Officers said the machine was mistaken by a garage attendant who was told to pick up a car fitting the description of Mason's vehicle for repair work.

There will be little work done by WPA on anything but National defense projects for some time in the future, Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, said.

Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, was ordered to prepare estimates of the cost of the work and submit the report to residents of that street and if they are willing a contract may be let for the work.

Mayor Harry Irvine suggested yesterday that the fee for candy-vending machines be fixed at $50 because many small merchants are being put out of business by them. The question was raised during a discussion on possible changes in the privilege license fees.

Luther

explained in answer to a question that he had been acquitted.

Wasn't Worried

From the jail, he went to Ridgeley to await at the home of an uncle the arrival of his Keyser relatives. Lighting a long black cigar, he told jail attaches that "all the time I felt like it had nothing to do with me, and I knew I had nothing to do with it, so I wasn't much worried."

The defense rested its case at 10:35 a. m. yesterday after presenting four witnesses of its own and two who previously testified for the state. Only four others, including Borror, testified the preceding day, with twenty-eight of the thirty-six summoned not called to the witness stand. The state presented thirty-three witnesses out of forty-nine summoned.

After rebuttal testimony by three prosecution witnesses, H. G. Shores, of Keyser, assisting State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris in the prosecution of the case, opened the argument for the state at 10:40 p. m. and spoke for an hour. He was followed by Defense Attorney Athey, who made a powerful plea for acquittal.

Pleads for Conviction

Court recessed at 12:05 p. m. and resumed at 1:30 p. m., when Defense Attorney Ryan also urged acquittal, speaking until 2:15 p. m. State's Attorney Harris had the last word, making a masterful appeal for conviction in an address lasting nearly an hour.

Defense counsel, in their addresses to the jury, laid great stress on the presumption of innocence attaching to the defendant and also the state case as based purely on "circumstantial evidence." They emphasized that the jurors had no right to assume what happened, that they must determine their verdict on the basis of actual evidence presented.

Both Ryan and Athey declared that the automobile lighter found near Newhouse's body was "one in a million," with no proof that it was off Borror's car, as the state sought to show. Athey asked the state's attorney to explain why expert testimony was not produced to prove that the lighter was off the defendant's car and also called for an explanation of why there was no testimony concerning fingerprints on the various articles found at the scene. He likewise hit at the failure to produce the particles of the lenses of Borror's glasses, which the prosecution asserted were broken in the struggle in which Newhouse met his death.

Robbery Motive Ridiculed

The robbery motive indicated by state evidence the defense attorneys dismissed by pointing out that both men had been paid at the Celanese plant, Borror drawing $26.52 and that when arrested several hours after the slaying, Borror had less than $10 on his person. They also ridiculed the state assertion that the two men had fought by noting that witnesses who saw Borror shortly after 6:30 p. m. said nothing about any lacerations or other markings on him that would indicate he had been in a struggle to the death.

The defense contention was that after leaving Borror, Newhouse got in a poker game, as Borror said he told him he planned to do, was slugged and his body taken to the spot where it was found. Some of the poker players in Piedmont, Athey said, "would cut your throat for a quarter."

The fact that Newhouse's legs were crossed and indications that his body had been dragged to the point where it was

$1,000 in Prizes Offered For Parade Here Marking Baltimore and Ohio Day

Procession May 28 Will Form in South End; Thomas F. Conlon Is Named Marshal

Cash awards totaling approximately $1,000 will be offered for the outstanding bands, drum and bugle corps, volunteer fire companies, floats, fraternal organizations, clubs and schools participating in the parade featuring the annual celebration of Baltimore and Ohio Day, Wednesday, May 28, it was announced yesterday by Harold Powell, chairman of the parade committee.

List of Prizes

The following prizes, based on points, will be awarded:

Senior bands—first prize $75; second, $50; junior bands, first prize $50; second, $30. Points: 50 for music, 25 for appearance, 15 for marching and 10 for alignment.

Senior drum and bugle corps—first prize, $75; second, $50; junior drum and bugle corps, first prize, $50; second, $30. Points: 20 attack, 20 alignment, 20 marching, 20 music, 30 uniforms.

Volunteer fire companies—first prize, $50; second, $30. Points: 30 uniform, 30 march, 15 alignment, 15 attack and 16 equipment.

Fraternal organizations, clubs and schools with one hundred or more in line will receive $25 each. School children must be above the fifth grade to qualify.

Floats of historical nature—first prize, $30; second, $20.

Powell predicted that the parade will be one of the largest ever to pass over the city streets. Formation will take place on Lafayette avenue in the South End, near the Baltimore and Ohio Y. M. C. A. ready to march at 4 p. m.

The line of march will be from the B. & O. Y. M. C. A. to Virginia avenue to Maryland avenue, to Williams street, to Park street, to Baltimore street to North Centre street to Smith street to Mechanic street, to Baltimore street, to George street, thence to Salem street, to disband at the state armory. No organization can qualify for prizes unless the march to the armory is completed.

Judges will be along the line of march and awards will be presented in the state armory after the parade. The reviewing stand will be located at Baltimore and Liberty streets and a sound truck will be used to assist with the plans.

Conlon Is Marshal

Thomas F. Conlon, parade marshal, said yesterday that there should be no marching or drilling other than the usual step forward and violation of this rule will disqualify and organization for competition for prizes.

Conlon said that organizations invited to participate include the Spanish-American War Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion and their auxiliaries, Sons of Legionnaires, D. A. R. societies, Red Cross, civic clubs, service clubs, fraternal bodies, schools, fire companies, uniformed patrols and any other organized groups that may be interested.

Organizations will be permitted to have floats of a historical nature (Continued on Page 29, Col. 2)

Former Local Resident Dies In Washington

The Rev. G. Ellis Williams Succumbs Suddenly at Home of Heart Attack

The Rev. Dr. G. Ellis Williams, 50, a native of Cumberland, died suddenly yesterday at his home, 1608 Allison street, N. W. Washington, D. C. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

He was serving as district superintendent of the East Washington District of the Methodist church at the time of his death.

A son of the late Henry T. and Jane Phillips Williams, he was a graduate of Allegheny high school, this city, Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., and George Washington University, Washington.

Since being ordained into the ministry about 1910, the Dr. Williams had held charges at three Methodist churches in Washington, Woodside, Lincoln Road and Petworth, and in Falls Church, Va. For thirteen years he was stationed at Calvary Methodist church, Frederick, Md., where he supervised the construction of a $300,000 edifice.

He was appointed district superintendent in 1936. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Mildred Hanson Williams, formerly of Frostburg; two sons, Gladstone Williams, of Clinton, Mass., and three daughters, Webster L. and Homer L. Williams, both of Cumberland, and Clinton L. Williams, of Baltimore; (Continued on Page 29, Col. 6)

REPUBLICAN WOMEN TO FORM "STEWART FOR CONGRESS CLUB"

An organization to be known as the "Stewart-for-Congress-Club" will be formed today at a meeting of Republican women, scheduled for the Knights of Malta hall, Prospect square, at 2:15 p. m.

A Charles Stewart, G. O. P. nominee for House of Representatives from the Sixth Maryland district, will deliver the principal address, and will be introduced by Nelson W. Russell, a member of the Republican State Central committee of Allegany county, who will preside at the meeting.

Russell will call the meeting to order and will talk on the aims and purposes of the new club.

Following a program of group singing and vocal solo by Mrs. George Engle, of Frostburg, nomination and election of officers of the new club will be in order. Those desiring to join the club, regardless of party affiliation, will be registered for the campaign.

Refreshments will be served.

CUMBERLAND YOUTH REIGNS AS GOVERNOR FOR TWO MINUTES

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 1 (AP)—Thomas J. O'Toole, a twelve-year-old freckled Cumberland youth, was acting governor of Maryland for two minutes today but it was long enough to inquire about how chief executives go about pardoning people.

Tommy, a sixth grade student at St. Mary's school in Cumberland, was selected to act as governor as climax to Maryland's observance of National Youth Week.

When he asked Governor O'Connor how one went about getting "people out of jail," the governor said he had plenty of parole applications pending on his desk.

But before he could do much with his brief and temporary "pardoning powers," the two minutes was up.

Tommy, however, showed much pleasure with a large document bearing the Maryland state seal which certified the member of the Cumberland Sons of the American Legion had been acting governor.

The youth wore his Legion Sons uniform while "in office." Tommy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles O'Toole, his grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Keegan, and Tommy's two brothers and one sister, witnessed the ceremony.

RIDGELEY TO NAME CANDIDATES FOR TOWN ELECTION

The Voters of Ridgeley, W. Va., will assemble in the Knobly street school this evening at 8 o'clock at which time candidates for the municipal election June 3, 1941 will be nominated. Candidates will be selected to run for mayor, recorder and the five council seats. Officers elected in June will serve for a term of two years.

B & O Men To Vote For Delegates to Relief Convention

Ballots Distributed to 6,000 Employees of Cumberland Division

Ballots are being distributed to about 6,000 employees of the Cumberland division of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for an election of delegates to the Relief Department convention which will be held June 26 and 27, in the Statler hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

All but three of the fifteen candidates for the six places as delegates are Cumberland men. Each delegate represents 1,000 men participating in the relief department program of benefits for sickness, natural and accidental death.

The purpose of the convention is to choose four members of the Advisory committee, one member of the Operating committee, and to fill such vacancies in these two committees as may have been caused by death, termination of service, incapacity or resignation from either committee.

Election of the six delegates from the Cumberland division will be held Thursday, May 15, 1941. Ballots not received in the office of the superintendent of the Relief department, Baltimore, Md., by noon of May 15, will not be counted.

The fifteen candidates of the Cumberland division are Patrick W. Burke, conductor; George F. Buskey, pipefitter; Macon J. Coleman, machinist inspector; John R. Greise, blacksmith-welder; Charles F. Hare, Kline, yard clerk.

George F. McDermott, clerk; David S. McMillan, switchman; Benjamin H. Ryan, car repairman; Walter R. Sanner, fireman; Raymond Vians, machinist apprentice; Carl C. Wagner, machinist; all of Cumberland, and Roy N. Edwards, carman, Martinsburg, W. Va.; John D. McCarty, track foreman, Kearneysville, W. Va.; and George E. Sirbaugh, carman, Keyser, W. Va.

Fourteen divisions of the B. & O. railroad will send eighty-two delegates to the convention.

Local Draft Board No. 2 Is Exempted from Quota Calls during May

Local Draft Board No. 2 will not be required to furnish any men for the May 21-31 quota call, a notice from state headquarters to this effect was received yesterday by P. Emmett Fahey, chief clerk of Board No. 2.

The notice also stated that on and after June 1, replacement calls for draftees rejected at the induction station will be discontinued. In the event any men are rejected in the calls after June 1, they will be made up in later quota calls.

The new method was put into effect in order to prevent unnecessary paper work and enable all local draft boards to carry out their quota calls without having to make the troublesome replacement calls between regular quota calls, Mahey said.

Kiwanians Hear Kimble Reply To Critics of Local Legislators

Citizens Have Never Availed Themselves of 'Home Rule', He Says

The people of Allegany county have only themselves to blame for the fact that measures affecting the county and its municipalities are passed by the legislature in defiance of so-called "home rule" principles. State Senator Robert B. Kimble declared yesterday in a talk before the Kiwanis club.

Replying directly to widespread criticism of local measures passed by the recently adjourned session of the legislature, Senator Kimble said that the citizens of Allegany county have never sought to take advantage of the "home rule" amendment to the constitution, which the county could govern itself, with little or no interference

Keyser Man, 29, Is Fre after Jurors Deliberate Three Hours To Conclude Long Trial

Luther W. Borrer, 29-year-old Celanese worker, of Keyser, W. Va., stood acquitted today of murder in the Thanksgiving eve slaying of Lyle B. Newhouse, 26, also of Keyser.

The not guilty verdict was rendered at 6:40 p. m. yesterday by a circuit court jury which deliberated slightly more than three hours. The jury, of which Eugene B. B. was foreman, began its deliberations at 3:10 p. m. and arrived at its verdict at 6:20 p. m., waiting to deliver it in open court until 6:40 p. m. when Judge William A. Huster called it in.

Murderer Unknown

By its verdict the jury accepted the defense contention that the house met his death at the hands of a person or persons unknown. The half-hour elapsing between the time Borrer supposedly left his home, Piedmont, W. Va., and the finding of his body in a ditch along the Westernport-McCoolle road, Westernport, on the Maryland side of the Potomac river.

Borrer had testified that he had parted from Newhouse at 6 o'clock on the evening of November 1, 1940, in front of the Rex beer parlor, Piedmont, and Gerald J. Remar, 19-year-old Purgitsville, W. Va., driver, had told him he had covered the body about 6:30 p. m. although he failed to report the crime to any police authorities at the time.

Showing the strain of the two-week ordeal to which he had been subjected, the defendant was nervously overjoyed when the verdict was announced and he expressed heartfelt thanks to the jurors.

He stood alone at the controls of the defense. The verdict was given to the wife and five-year-old daughter of the man who had sat with him through the day, had returned to his Keyser home, where another daughter, aged 8, is ill, and neither of the defense attorneys, Edward J. R. of Cumberland, and H. R. A. of Keyser, was present.

Wife Near Collapse

Mrs. Borrer, who had been at the side of her husband throughout the long, wearying three-day trial, appeared near collapse as the proceedings neared their close yesterday afternoon. Several times during the closing arguments of the defense counsel, she had broken down in apparently uncontrollable fits of weeping, and she seemed worn and haggard.

The little girl, all unaware of her father was on trial for his slaying, had slept most of the afternoon in her arms. When awake, she lay quietly in his lap, making no cries and looking grave beyond her years as if somehow she sensed the solemnity of the occasion.

Walking out of the courtroom free man for the first time since the preceding Thursday, when he had surrendered to Sheriff Lucian Radcliffe, Borrer received the congratulations of a few bystanders, then returned to the county jail to obtain some clothing and other personal belongings. There he called on his Keyser home and without a preliminary remarks told who answered the telephone, "Come and get me, I'm coming home."

Newly Appointed Official Will Be Given Dinner Here

Francis A. Petrott, Adjutant General, Will Also Speak at K. of C. Home

Francis A. Petrott, Maryland's newly appointed adjutant general, will be honored at a dinner Tuesday, May 6, at 6 p. m., at the Longview hotel, prior to delivering an address to members of Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus, who are registered under the Selective Service act.

Major General Petrott, formerly secretary of state, will speak at 8:15 p. m., in the K. of C. hall, North Mechanic street, on national defense.

Attorney General William Walsh, this city, will also speak at the meeting after the dinner. Major Harry Irvine and city engineer, a number of prominent civic leaders, officers of the council, and member of the committee in charge of the affair will be invited to attend the dinner, according to Stigmaier. There will be no speech-making.

Officers and member of the Longview Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Port Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, have already been asked to attend the meeting to hear Major General Petrott and Attorney General Walsh speak.

A buffet luncheon will be served after the meeting.

Schine Movie Interests Take Title To Strand Theater for $235,000

Deed Is Transferred from Cumberland Amusement Company

The Schine Theater Circuit, Inc., assumed formal title yesterday to the Strand theater property in a refinancing move, according to papers filed for record in the office of Circuit Court Clerk Robert Jackson.

Placed on file was a deed transferring the property from the Cumberland Amusement Company to the Chesapeake Theatres Corporation, a Maryland subsidiary of the Schine film Revenue stamps on the document indicated the purchase price to be $235,000.

Pay $80,000 in Cash

The theater property was sold to the Schine company in March, 1940, under a conditional sale agreement, and yesterday's transaction, which included payment of $80,000 in cash and of two purchase-money (Continued on Page 29, Col. 6) mortgages totaling $155,000 on the property, was designed to provide lower rates in paying off the obligation.

The property is subject to a $100,000 first mortgage in favor of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States. The mortgage provides for payment of the amount by November, 1954, with interest at the rate of four and one-half per cent.

The second mortgage, in the amount of $55,000, is held by the Cumberland Amusement Company which had owned the theater for two decades. This amount is to be paid off within the next year, with interest at five per cent.

Release Previous Mortgage

Papers releasing a previous mortgage on the property, in the form of mortgage bonds originally issued by the Cumberland Amusement Company in the amount of $175,000 in 1922, were filed on behalf of the Mercantile Trust Company of Baltimore. This indebtedness, (Continued on Page 29, Col. 6)
